EUROPE DEBATES BERLIN PLEA

DAWES QUITTING AN ILL OMEN TO HOOVER FORCES

Fear He May Upset Renomination.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—The resignation of Ambassador Charles G. Dawes from the Hoover administration continued today the most exciting political development in months.

Notwithstanding the ambassador's disposal of speculation connecting his resignation with presidential ambitions as "all damned nonsense" the politicians were discussing nothing else today than contingencies which might make Gen. Dawes the Republican party's candidate either for President instead of Mr. Hoover or for Vice President instead of Charles Curtis.

The situation may be summed up in the words of one worried Hoover apostle, who gloomily remarked that "almost anything may happen now." There was also discerned in the attitude of some more apprehensive Hooverites a trace of disappointment that the ambassador had not more effectually discouraged hopeful political illwishers of Mr. Hoover as he might have done by declaring that what the country needs is four more years of Hoover and by announcing that he is home to jerk off his coat and pitch into the fight to send a solid Hoover delegation from Illinois to the Chicago convention.

Feeds Political Speculation.

The circumstances of the resignation continue more or less of a mystery which is serving to feed the fires of political suspicions and speculations. From administration sources comes the information that though the President had been informed by Gen. Dawes himself of his intention to resign, he did not know that such action was imminent and was taken by surprise by the announcement made by the ambassador's secretary two hours after Gen. Dawes had boarded a train for Chicago. There is an evident feeling in administration precincts that Gen. Dawes was singularly unobservant of that courtesy to the President which prescribes the announcement of an ambassador's resignation by the White House.

Some of the more suspicious theorists think they perceive a connection between the sudden resignation and Gen. Dawes' two days' absence from the White House last week during which he communed with the financial barons of Wall street, who preferred Dawes to Hoover in 1928 and who have been clamoring for a new Moses with repercussions at the White House signalized by such outbursts as that of Secretary of War Pat Hurley who complained in a recent speech that business interests are giving the President no help in his efforts to alleviate the depression.

"Business Reasons" Accepted.

According to such information as has percolated from the White House "business reasons" constituted the sole explanation Gen. Dawes gave the President for intended retirement from the administration. It is not doubted by the politicians that his business interests provided an important and perhaps the primary motive, particularly in the light of the intelligence that the stock of Gen. Dawes' bank went up some 25 dollars a share the day his return to his bank desk was published.

The politicians are ready to believe all this and to believe furthermore that Gen. Dawes did not resign primarily to run for President while cynically pointing out that whatever his motives, he has placed himself in a favorable position to be struck by lightning from any quarter of the political heavens.

Two Major Causes.

The excitement this incident has produced among Republican politicians is due to two major causes.

In the first place, an outstanding Republican leader with a racy personality and appealing idiosyncrasies, of Rooseveltian forthrightness and a reputation for slashing red tape and getting things done, who has been "unavailable" for consideration for the presidency by virtue of his connection with the administration of the heir apparent to the Republican nomination, has suddenly made himself "available" by severing the connection.

In the second place, he has severed

Waives Navy Rights; Aids Seamen.

BY CLIFFORD GESSLER.

HONOLULU, Jan. 10.—Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, held with his mother-in-law, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, and two others on the old warship Alton in connection with the kidnaping and slaying of Joseph Kahahawai, alleged Hawaiian rapist, today announced that he will waive a naval court martial trial. It is expected he will be turned over to the civil authorities at once.

Prosecutor Griffith Wight said he will seek an indictment on charges of first degree murder against the naval officer and the other three early next week. Conviction under this charge carries the death penalty; no other penalty is allowed, under the law.

Defense Attorney's Statement.

Montgomery Winn, attorney for Lieut. Massie and Mrs. Fortescue, issued the following statement this afternoon after a conference with the naval officer aboard the U. S. S. Alton, formerly the U. S. S. Chicago:

"I was unable to see Mrs. Fortescue today except for a few minutes due to her nervous condition. I saw Lieut. Massie who said he has decided to waive any right he may have for trial by the navy or in the federal courts. He said he was willing to be tried by a jury of citizens of Honolulu in the territorial courts and in which the rape case was originally tried. Massie is notifying naval authorities not to request a change of venue.

"Several prominent citizens have phoned me, being unable to reach the Alton, asking me to convey their sympathies to Mrs. Fortescue and Lieut. Massie. I have been retained by Massie to represent E. J. Lord and Al Jones, the two enlisted men of the navy also charged with the murder of the Hawaiian, assuming that the territory succeeds in having Jones indicted.

Demands Speedy Trial.

"I hope to have Jones released on the same terms as those granted the other three defendants. We shall insist on a speedy trial, which right is assured by the constitution of the United States to every citizen accused of crime."

Mr. Winn concluded by saying that the defense will not seek a change of venue from the criminal division of the territorial courts to the Circuit court on one of the other islands.

Lieut. Massie, Mrs. Fortescue, Lord and Al Jones are being held by naval authorities under a "gentleman's agreement." It is not known whether the sailors will submit to a civil trial, but it is assumed they too will ask to be arraigned in the territorial court. Mrs. Fontescue will face civil action.

The four are charged with the abduction and murder of the Hawaiian, one of five men accused of raping Mrs. Thalia Massie, attractive 20 year old wife of the lieutenant, on Sept. 12.

Mrs. Fortescue Collapses.

Naval officials today stated that Mrs. Fortescue had collapsed and was confined to her bed aboard the ship which will be the temporary quarters of the defendants until the trial comes to an end.

"Her condition is in no way critical," her physician said. "She is highly excited and incoherent. She may not be able to attend the trial when it opens."

Honolulu residents and friends have sent flowers to her. She has also received numerous radio messages of sympathy.

The Alton lies high and dry on a mudflat in Pearl harbor and is connected with the mainland by a pier 75 feet long. Marines are guarding the pier day and night and Rear Admiral Yates Stirling Jr., commandant of the naval base, has ordered to allow no one aboard the ship except with a pass signed by himself.

Slain Man Buried.

Kahahawai, the slain man, was buried today. Escorted by a heavy police guard, the four surviving defendants in the rape case, wept as they viewed his body in a mortuary chapel. A Hawaiian wreath, a tribute from the barefoot football team of which he was a star player, was placed about his neck. After the services, the defendants, who are awaiting a new trial, were led back to the police station as a safety measure.

Public announcement that the death penalty would be asked against Lieut. Massie, his mother-in-law, and the two sailors has increased the bitter feeling between the navy personnel

CROONING ASSAILED AS 'DEGENERATE' BY CARDINAL O'CONNELL

Boston, Mass., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Cardinal O'Connell today took to task radio crooners and pagan plays in his address to 3,000 men of the Holy Name society at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross.

Cardinal O'Connell, dean of the Catholic hierarchy in the United States, termed the crooners the worst of the lot and said its practitioners were "whiners and bleaters defiling the air.

"I desire to speak earnestly about a degenerate form of singing which is called crooning," he said. "No true American would practice this base art.

"I like to use my radio when weary. But I can't turn the dials without getting these whiners, crying vapid words to impossible tunes.

Tie Watchman, Soak Building in Arson Plot

An attempt to burn down a building at 2241 South Wabash avenue, described by Fire Marshal Corrigan as the boldest bit of arson he had ever encountered in his years as a fireman, was frustrated last evening by the quick action of a policeman.

After kidnaping and binding a colored attendant who was in charge of the building, which is occupied by Fred Hawkins, Inc., an automobile sales concern, the arsonists soaked the floors with 150 gallons of kerosene, opened the gasoline tanks of thirty-two automobiles, and turned off the sprinkling system.

Policeman Sees Blaze.

They then started a fire in the rear of the place after closing all the windows. This fire, in a waste basket, was seen by Policeman Elmer Officer, colored, of the Pekin Inn station, who called firemen and broke in and extinguished the flames before they could reach the saturated floors.

Hawkins, who was found at his home, 8441 Luella avenue, said that he knew of no reason for the attempt to burn his place. He said he had recently dismissed ten mechanics because of the depression.

The colored attendant, Charles Mathis, was found in a salesroom at 2240 South Michigan avenue several hours after the flames were extinguished. He had been handcuffed and tied to an automobile.

According to his story, three men riding in a large automobile arrived at the Wabash avenue place late in the afternoon and announced they wanted the car stored. When Mathis admitted them they displayed pistols and threatened to kill him. Mathis said he suggested instead that they lock him up somewhere and he was then taken across the alley to the Michigan avenue salesroom.

Another Man Gets Threat.

Hawkins, when questioned by Fire Attorney Thomas Sheehan, said a man named Fred Hawkins, living on Marquette boulevard, recently received a threatening letter and that this had been turned over to the Woodlawn police. He was inclined to believe, Hawkins said, that he had been a victim of mistaken identity.

Mathis was held by the police overnight. The investigation will be continued today. The arsonists apparently, used 150 gallons of kerosene in preparing for the touchoff. Three empty 50 gallon drums were found in the place.

British Admiral Who Was in Jutland Battle Dies

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Admiral Sir William Nicholson, British naval torpedo expert, died today. He commanded the Canada, Britain's largest battleship, at the battle of Jutland and afterward served as third sea lord.

CHAUFFEUR SHOT IN MYSTERIOUS GANG ONSLAUGHT

In a mysterious attack, Rudolph Fishleigh, 26 years old, of 2952 North Albany avenue, chauffeur for Charles E. Crone, 1320 North State street, ventilating manufacturer, was shot in the left leg last night. The shooting took place near Lincoln and Devon avenues, the city limits at Tessville, while Fishleigh was driving his employer's car.

At the Edgewater hospital the chauffeur told Capt. Joseph Goldberg of the Albany Park station, he knew of no reason for the attack. After two hours of questioning Capt. Goldberg ordered him removed to the Bridewell hospital.

Fishleigh said he had started from his home to Evanston to get his employer's sister, Helen. On the way he stopped in a pharmacy at Kedzie and Wilson avenues, where he noticed three men in a car. They followed him. In Lincoln avenue they fired half a dozen shots at him. Several bullets crashed through the rear window and windshield.

Capt. Goldberg learned later, he said, that when Fishleigh stopped in the drug store he telephoned a garage in North Wells street. Fishleigh, according to the captain, said: "The same men who followed me last night are following me tonight." According to the captain, Fishleigh did not explain the call.

Thieves Chisel Two Walls, Steal 2,500,000 Cigarets

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Thieves chiseled their way through two walls thirty inches thick and stole 2,500,000 cigarets, valued at $17,000, from a warehouse here last night or early today. Two trucks were stolen from an adjoining warehouse to haul the loot away. These were found later, empty.

Northup Ready for Fireworks in Canal Writ

A showdown centering on Timothy L. Connolly, former purchasing agent for the sanitary district and potential star witness for the prosecution in the conspiracy trial of T. J. Crowe and other officials of the canal board during the whoopee régime, is scheduled for this morning between the state's attorney's office and Judge Philip L. Sullivan of the Criminal court.

T. L. CONNOLLY.

Additional developments, it is said, may overshadow in interest the technical fight over Connolly. Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, who is directing the Crowe prosecution, did not wait for the expected fireworks over Connolly today, but issued a statement last night in which he charged that some one in his office was furnishing information to the enemy. He alleged that "official interference" marked the Connolly incident and asserted that that interference extended even to a United States officer.

May Testify for State.

Another possible development, it was pointed out, hinges on Connolly himself. He may volunteer to testify for the state against his former associates in exchange for immunity. This possibility, it is rumored, has stricken the defense camp with fear.

The showdown over Connolly involves a writ of habeas corpus issued by Judge Sullivan Saturday. When the ex-purchasing agent was not produced, Judge Sullivan ordered State's Attorney Swanson and Northup to appear in court this morning, at the same time citing punitive laws governing failure to respond properly to a writ. The response of the state's attorney's office was that it did not hold Connolly.

In reply to this return, Attorney Cameron Latter, counsel of record for Connolly, asserted he had been told by an assistant state's attorney that the return was unture. This remark prompted Mr. Northup's statement yesterday referring to an enemy in his own camp.

Not in State Custody.

"Connolly is not and has not been in custody of this office for a single minute," declared Mr. Northup. "The state is aware of its duty and will not violate it. It also knows its rights and will exercise them to the fullest extent necessary, notwithstanding any truculent statements which may have appeared in the press within the last 24 hours.

"I have a suspicion, not fully verified, as to who it was in this office who gave Mr. Latter his information as to what assistant state's attorneys and police officers were absent from the building. Official interference in the matter of apprehending Mr. Connolly has been very flagrant, and has extended even to a United States officer."

Connolly is the big question mark in the whoopee trial, desired alike by prosecution and defense. Sought for three years, he was arrested recently in San Diego, Cal., and returned to Illinois Friday. Anticipating a move by his friends, officials responsible for his return took him off the train at Streator. Since then his whereabouts have not been publicly known. Less than 24 hours after his arrival in the state the writ was filed by Latter. Accompanying Latter in court was John Higgins, personal attorney for Crowe.

The trial of Crowe and his co-defendants will be reopened this morning before Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court, and his associates, Judges John Prystalski and James J. Kelly, sitting in an advisory capacity. The hearing was adjourned late last week.

WE MUST FACE 'HARD FACTS' IN CRISIS: BRITAIN

Debt Parley Needed, MacDonald Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Prime Minister MacDonald took steps tonight to prevent the collapse or postponement of the conference on reparations at Lausanne on Jan. 25. He declared the statement of Heinrich Bruening, the German chancellor, announcing that Germany is unable to make any further reparations payments, renders the conference "even more necessary than ever."

Germany's plea caused a wide stir in all the capitals of Europe. Its first repercussions and perhaps Europe's answer to it will come at a meeting of the board of directors of the Bank for International Settlements at Basil, Switzerland, tomorrow.

France Talks of "Reprisals."

Paris dispatches indicate new political alignments in France and talk of the use of economic weapons against Germany.

The Belgian press expressed indignation over the Bruening statement.

German officials, seemingly amazed by the sensation, hastened to declare that Chancellor Bruening in stating that Germany cannot pay any more reparations, had not said anything more than what Germany had been saying for a long time.

"Need Parley More Than Ever."

Interviewed on Chancellor Bruening's statement, MacDonald said that "the policy and point of view of his majesty's government can be announced only at its proper time and place.

"Meanwhile, it might be said, however, that in view of economic conditions disclosed by the report of the economic experts at Basel after their inquiry into Germany's ability to pay and her internal political problems, it was not unlikely that some such declaration as Bruening has made would be delivered at the Lausanne conference.

"The fact that it has already been made has rendered the conference more necessary than ever, for it was impossible to leave things as they are. The present situation is the result of international agreements and an international conference is therefore necessary to deal with it."

"Must Face Hard Facts."

The prime minister added that he was sure that the governments represented at Lausanne would realize that European recovery and appeasement depended upon "facing the hard facts."

A cabinet meeting called for tomorrow in connection with the winding up of the Burmese round table conference will devote its discussions almost entirely to the situation arising from the Bruening declaration, it was learned tonight.

While MacDonald wants to go ahead with the Lausanne conference, believing immediate action is necessary to prevent further financial catastrophe, some British officials are urging its postponement. They fear that if the conference is held on Jan. 25 a deadlock between the French and German delegations is certain to arise, which would result in an atmosphere damaging to prospects for the disarmament conference, which will open on Feb. 2.

Want America's View.

They also argue that a postponement would give Germany's European creditors an opportunity to exchange views on the new situation created by Bruening's declaration through ordinary ambassadorial channels and private talks between leading statesmen. It is also deemed essential that the view of the American government be obtained. The British believe that both the official American opinion and American public opinion on Germany's latest move may prove to be the determining factor of the entire situation.

Certain diplomatic quarters hint a rapprochement with Adolf Hitler, Germany's Fascist leader, may not have been the sole explanation of Bruening's move to obtain a cancellation of reparations. Both American and British bankers are now in Berlin discussing the future of frozen short term credits and must have had some knowledge of the chancellor's intentions, it is declared here.

Many of these bankers are known to be sympathetic to cancellation and it is possible that when the bankers' committee report is issued it will throw new light on Germany's inability to pay.

Although under the terms of the Versailles treaty, France is entitled to reoccupy the Ruhr if Germany defaults, it is not considered here that she will take such action as the outcome would likely destroy all hope of Germany paying either reparations or commercial credits.

MacDonald is expected to ask the cabinet to empower him to act as a peacemaker between Berlin and Paris.

World Bank Meets Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Jan. 10.—The real answer to Chancellor Bruening's ultimatum on reparations is expected to be heard here tomorrow when the directors of the world bank convene for their monthly meeting and will be asked to approve the report drawn by the Young plan's consultative committee.

Charles Rist, French economist, and Emile Francqui, Belgian financial expert, who with Pierre-Etienne Flandin, French minister of finance, yesterday refused to talk. It is possible they are waiting for some definitive decision in the three-way conference between Premier Laval of France, Flandin and Andre Francois-Poncet, French ambassador to Germany, tonight.

By coincidence there may be a showdown over the routine question of extending the $100,000,000 credit of the reichsbank which falls due on Feb. 4. It was rumored tonight that France may refuse to extend her $25,000,000 slice of the credit.

France May Withdraw Funds.

France, it is believed, will deliver an ultimatum of her own by pointing out that a formal cessation of reparations payments will be interpreted as an abrogation of the Young plan and that France will withdraw her $125,000,000 guarantee fund—or, rather, the 70,000,000 or so Swiss francs.

Likewise, it is a foregone conclusion that the special credit of 80,000,000 schillings (about $11,500,000) asked by Austria will be turned down, as the French are in no mood to fork over any money to Germany's allies. Hungary may share a similar fate on her $20,000,000 credit, but her chances are considered better.

Line Up Behind Briand.

PARIS, Jan. 10.—(AP)—French political factions and newspapers seemed to have lined up behind Premier Pierre Laval today as economic measures were suggested to meet Chancellor Bruening's declaration that Germany could not pay reparations.

Just what attitude the French would take as a consequence of the German chancellor's declaration had not been decided, but it appeared that France would be represented at the international reparations conference in Lausanne, the Bruening statement notwithstanding.

Official circles did not envisage recourse to The Hague court as provided under the Young plan in event of a deliberate violation by Germany of the undertaking to pay reparations.

France had other weapons, experts remarked. It would be possible to apply a tax on all goods imported from Germany, they said. The government's position is expected to be the subject of discussion at a cabinet meeting Tuesday.

Berlin Surprised Over Flurry.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Jan. 10.—Germany's official position on reparations as restated by Chancellor Bruening yesterday suggested no departure from previous recent official utterances since the publication of the report of the Basel experts, and official quarters today appeared at a loss to account for the flurry occasioned abroad by the chancellor's reiteration of the German standpoint.

Foreign diplomats, especially those representing the creditor powers, have never been left in doubt, it was stated, as to the government's decision to let it be known that Germany has reached the end of her capacity to pay reparations, and that this conclusion was made when the reich petitioned the world bank for a formal inquiry.

Chancellor Bruenings' formal and unequivocal declaration that Germany has reached the end of her capacity to resume reparations after expiration of the Hoover moratorium year is loudly acclaimed in the political press. It reads into the statement that the chancellor has virtually burned his reparations bridges behind him and that neither he nor any future chancellor would again succeed in obtaining the German president's signature to any fresh reparations accord.

Bandits Kill Gas Station Attendant; Shoot at Girl

William Boss, attendant in McMullen's filling station in Frankfort township, near Joliet, was shot and killed last night when he resisted four bandits. As they entered Boss grappled with the nearest one. The robber struck him on the head, but Boss carried him to the floor with him. The robber then pressed a revolver against the attendant's abdomen and fired, inflicting a fatal wound. Meanwhile Elizabeth McMullen, 18 years old, daughter of the station owner, ran outside for help. One of the gunmen fired at her, but missed, and she turned in an alarm.

Oppose Nelson MoveToday for Separate Bank Trial

State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county will go to Woodstock today to oppose the motions for separate trials which State Auditor Oscar Nelson and George Woodruff, Chicago banker, have entered before Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff there. They are under indictment on a charge of conspiracy in connection with the closing of the Waukegan State bank last June, along with Norman O. Geyer, former president of the bank. Mr. Smith said that he would also ask Judge Shurtleff, who recently dismissed a charge of misfeasance against Auditor Nelson growing out of the same bank closing, to transfer the conspiracy hearing to another judge.

A BROKEN MAN, BRIAND FIGHTS TO KEEP ALIVE

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 10.—[By phone to London to avoid censor.]—While the youngsters he tutored in the political game were grappling today with the problems of the domestic and international crisis without his help, Aristide Briand, veteran French foreign minister, spent a lonely day. He was propped up on a chaise lounge in his private suite in the Quai d'Orsay watching the remnants of his life's work tumble in ruins.

Chancellor Bruening's declaration that Germany cannot pay any more reparations must have been the last blow—if any one dared tell the old man about it. There is no need to be familiar with French politics to realize what the Nationalists are saying now about the man who negotiated the evacuation of the Ruhr and arranged with the late Gustav Stresemann, German foreign minister, to withdraw French troops from the Rhineland before the date specified in the Versailles treaty.

Briand in Great Pain.

The old man of Locarno is in great pain from a relentless malady, which is slowly carrying him off. His legs are swollen, and troubles of circulation resulting from advanced arteriosclerosis have become very pronounced. His breathing is troubled and pains in his heart have become so violent and frequent he is unable to lie down. So they prop him up in a chair. Often he has to sleep like that all night.

While his general weakness has steadily progressed in the last few months to the present attacks something more specific began only two weeks ago. It is considered possible a complete rest may end it and win him a temporary reprieve from death. For this reason there is some talk of his going to the Riviera after his resignation is formally accepted. It is not at all sure, however, he will be able to make the trip.

During the stirring developments of the last few days no one has taken the trouble to consult him, and he is more completely alone than at any time in his life. Ironically, although most of the French papers treat his resignation as an accomplished fact, this is not the case. He is still foreign minister—in name.

Denies He Actually Resigned.

Briand, through the unofficial but unmistakable medium of a deputy of the left who is one of his old friends, let the world know today that his reported resignation was all a mistake, and that he has not promised Premier Laval that he will resign at all.

"It is true that I offered my portfolio to Laval," declared in effect Briand's disembodied political ghost from its too hastily dug grave, "but it was only to make it easier for him to reorganize his government. I did not want to stand in the way of his forming a new cabinet.

"He may have obtained the impression from talking to me over the telephone that I intended to resign, but that is only because I thought the whole cabinet was resigning on Wednesday. My original offer still holds good. If the cabinet resigns, I resign with it, but if the cabinet stays, I stay."

Puts Laval in Hole.

All of this puts Laval in a very uncomfortable position. It means the "old fox" of the foreign office is up to his favorite game of making his adversaries look foolish. Laval is now obliged either to keep Briand or to go through with his original intention of turning in the collective resignation of the cabinet. Laval will see Briand tomorrow and possibly now that the old man has had his joke, he may relent and give up voluntarily.

In any event the prediction that he is finished is still pretty sure to be realized in one way or another.

CHINESE TROOPS TRAP JAPANESE; 60 ARE KILLED

Entire Regiment May Have Been Captured.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Jan. 11. — [Monday.] — Twenty Japanese officers and noncommissioned officers and forty Japanese cavalry men were killed at Chingshi, west of Chinchow, Saturday night, according to a dispatch from Mukden. The message said one cavalry regiment commanded by Lieut. Col. Dentaro Koga had been surrounded by 5,000 Chinese bandit troops.

Lieut. Col. Koga and four other high officers were among those killed. The Chinese continued the attack yesterday morning and still had the Japanese hemmed in.

Fear Regiment Captured.

Reports indicate that Lieut. Col. Koga's regiment may have been taken prisoners. Reinforcements have also been ordered to rush to the scene from Ssupingkai, Mukden, and Liaoyang.

As soon as a report of the battle was received at Chinchow, a Japanese infantry battalion was rushed to the scene, but encountered a large force of Chinese irregulars en route. This force was also surrounded by the Chinese. As a result communication with both Japanese detachments has been cut.

Despite the withdrawal of the main force of Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang's Chinese army from Chinchow to withing the Great Wall, this is far from marking the end of large scale Japanese military operations in Manchuria, according to all indications.

Gen. Shigeru Honjo, Japanese commander, today ordered troops now in Chinchow to direct all activities toward a cleanup of bandits. The entire independent garrison force at Mukden has been ordered to move. Thirteen trains are waiting to transport the soldiers.

Japanese Bare Heavy Losses.

The sudden renewal of hostilities by Chinese bandits has cost the Japanese heavy losses, military officials announced today. They said that the return of Gen. Jiro Tamon's division and other Japanese forces to Mukden from Chinchow has resulted in counter attacks against the Japanese apparently with the object of recapturing Chinchow.

Two Japanese officers were slain at Tashushan shortly after midnight today when 300 Chinese irregulars attacked the Japanese garrison, shortly after midnight today. Dispatches received here said the Chinese were repulsed after a two hour engagement.

Three thousand bandits are reported to be advancing upon Newchang and the Japanese have ordered a squadron of bombing planes to attack them. Another dispatch said that 15,000 bandit troops are concentrated at Peicheng. Japanese forces clashed with the Chinese there this morning and a fierce battle is reported to be in progress.

Japanese Defy British.

TIENTSIN, China, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Efforts of British officials to negotiate the reopening of traffic on the British operated Peiping-Mukden railway from Shanhaikwan to Mukden have been abandoned, it was revealed today.

Japanese military leaders finally stated that further negotiations must be carried on at Mukden. It was believed they had decided to deal only with Chinese officials of the line in pursuance of their policy of placing the Shanhaikwan-Mukden section under the control of the Mukden government.

Gen. Shigeru Honjo, Japanese commander, was understood to have consented to the passing of trains through the Japanese lines, but his orders either miscarried or were misunderstood by the brigades operating west of Chinchow, which has obstructed traffic on account of military activities proceeding just off the line.

Trains from Shanhaikwan, gateway to China, have been repeatedly searched by Japanese soldiers. Stories of assault on foreign railway workers have been denied by their superiors. A British official returning from the seat of negotiations at Suichunghsien reported that Japanese officers were courteous but unwilling for the trains to operate.

Chinese Beg Chiang to Return.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York News.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 10. — Fenghua, former President Chiang Kai-shek's mountain home in Chekiang province, will likely be Chiang's mecca for the next few days. Large numbers of government leaders are making pilgrimages requesting him to return to Nanking or "otherwise political chaos must result."

Sun Fo, president of the executive yuan, is heading one large party. He will leave Shanghai tomorrow, to be followed by others including students who have diverted their energies to a new channel in Nanking where they are camping out in the bitter cold of the government courtyards in an effort to draw Chiang Kai-shek, Wang Ching-wei, and Hu Han-min to Nanking.

Chiang Remains Silent.

Wang Ching-wai continues to quote illness as the cause of his inability to proceed to the capital, while Chiang Kai-shek remains silent despite appeals. Other leaders are proceeding to Canton to induce Hu Han-min to proceed to Nanking.

It is freely admitted that unless these leaders go to Nanking a government is impossible under the reorganized theory leading to the development of factions which wrecked the former government, while the urgency of the Manchurian situation adds to the new administration's difficulties.

Bandit Army Loots Town.

HANKOW, China, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Three thousand Chinese guerrillas, describing themselves as communists, captured and looted the important provincial city of Tungshan in southern Hupeh province last Sunday, belated advices said today.

The brigands, armed with 2,000 rifles and ten machine guns, were said to have overpowered the home guard of 1,000 men and thoroughly sacked the city, including the premises of the Catholic mission. The defenders lost 100 men, but killed 500 bandits.

PEIPING, China, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Secretary of State Stimson's recent note on the Sino-Japanese conflict was described in the Chinese press today as having "the head of a dragon, but the tail of a rat," and as locking the door after the "thief walked off with the jewels."

On the other hand, former Foreign Minister Wellington Koo referred to the note as a "statesmanlike move characteristic of the great peace loving nation which has been the sponsor of the anti-war pact, the founder of the policy of the open door, and of the upholding of the territorial and administrative integrity of China—policies which find their solemn confirmation in the nine power treaty, to which Japan is likewise a party."

WARNS BROTHER, IS KILLED WHEN BUILDING FALLS

Walter Glasebrook, 19 years old, 424 South Hoyne avenue, was killed yesterday afternoon when the roof of an unoccupied three story brick building at 2000 Ogden avenue collapsed. The body was recovered by firemen two hours later.

The youth had been sent to the building, which was recently condemned and was to be razed by city employés, by his mother, Mrs. Lucille Glasebrook. She told Walter that his 13 year old brother, Raymond, was playing there and that she feared he would be injured.

Sends Brother from Building.

Raymond and five other lads were in the building when Walter arrived. He ordered his brother to the street and Raymond went. Walter, instead of following him at once, loitered a few minutes on the second floor with the others, who were removing firewood from the structure.

When the roof began to crack all tried to get out. Young Glasebrook was caught in the center of the structure and buried in the débris. The others all escaped to the windows, where they remained until firemen arrived with ladders and carried them down. One lad, Anthony Castelbone, 13 years old, 826 South Winchester avenue, suffered cuts and bruises which were treated at the County hospital.

It was at first believed that all the boys had been saved. The firemen started digging operations under the direction of Acting Marshal Daniel J. Carmody after Mrs. Glasebrook arrived and told them that her elder son had been in the building. She and her husband, William Glasebrook, looked on while the search was being conducted.

The building, which was about fifty years old, is to be removed for the widening of Damen avenue. Some work had already been done in wrecking it and it was said the residents of the neighborhood had made the walls unsafe by dragging out beams and planks for fuel.

After the body of the youth was found, the police roped off the street around the structure.

HURLEY HOME AFTER GETTING CONVENTION; PROUD OF CHICAGO

Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the citizens' committee which won both the big national political conventions for Chicago, returned home yesterday from Washington where he and his associates bagged the Democratic meet on Saturday.

Although it is said this is the first time that an individual ever accomplished such a double victory, Chairman Hurley waved aside personal congratulations and said that his elation was all for Chicago and its recognition as "the convention city of the nation."

"We can hold our heads high now," he said, "and we can feel proud without showing it. Winning the two conventions would not have been possible if Chicago had not been united, if everybody had not been 100 per cent for Chicago. Mayor Cermak and all the members of our delegation handled themselves perfectly. We have real leadership now and both Republicans and Democrats will be glad they came to Chicago."

NAVAL OFFICER FACES MURDER TRIAL IN HAWAII

Lieut. Massie Waives Navy Rights in Case.

and certain elements in Honolulu. From the pulpits many pastors today delivered sermons concerning the killing and the recent attacks upon women.

Yesterday's statement by Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations in Washington, in which he said "American men will not stand for the violation of their women under any circumstances," aroused several pastors.

The Rev. Horace Leavitt, pastor of the Central Union church, the largest in Honolulu, referred to Admiral Pratt in his serman today as "a high official who is reported to have justified this resort to lynch law."

Admiral Pratt Attacked.

"He thereby puts himself and the naval force here above the law," the pastor said. "This is anarchy. He is utterly false to the constitution which he has sworn to uphold."

The Rev. Galen Weaver, pastor of the Church of the Crossroads, made his comment upon a newspaper report quoting Admiral Pratt as saying American men would not stand for the violation of their women under any circumstances and that "for this crime they have taken the matter into their own hands repeatedly when they have felt that the law has failed to do justice."

"Of all the public statements made in the relation to the present situation this is the most devilish pronouncement to come out of the mouth of an intelligent man," the Rev. Weaver said, concluding his sermon by expressing the hope that "President Hoover would use every process of the law to deprive the admiral of his command."

Says Admiral Erred.

County Attorney Gilliland in commenting on Admiral Pratt's statement said:

"There is not the first time an admiral has been all wet. The admiral based his statement upon the situation from erroneous information. My department is ready to contradict it at any time."

Reinforced patrols of territorial police guarded the streets of Honolulu today. Many women called at police headquarters asking protection for their homes. There were also requests from men for neighborhood patrols.

Despite the bitter racial feeling, Prosecutor Wight minimized the possibility of riots. He said that Lieut. Massie's decision to go to trial in the territorial courts has helped to relieve the tension.

The prosecutor added that hopes of securing a conviction in the murder trial are slim.

"The evidence conflicts too much," he said.

Stricken Fortescue Worse.

New York, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Maj. Granville Roland Fortescue, author, war hero and correspondent whose wife and son-in-law are charged with killing an Hawaiian accused of attacking the major's daughter, was described tonight as a "very sick man."

At the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center hospital, where he was taken yesterday with pneumonia, it was said he was under the care of special nurses and his condition was "serious" and "considerable worse."

QUIZ BY CONGRESS ON HONOLULU CASE URGED BY BRITTEN

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Possibility developed tonight of a congressional investigation into the tense situation at Honolulu growing out of assault on a naval officer's wife and killing of a native.

Representative Britten of Illinois, who was chairman of the house naval committee under Republican régime, said he was seeking more information on conditions in Hawaii, but thought a congressional airing would be desirable. His statement came soon after Secretary Adams had given his approval to Rear Admiral Stirling's taking into naval custody the three Americans. Britten asserted, however, his insistence upon every step being taken to protect the families of naval officers from outrages.

7 OF 14 MINERS TRAPPED IN PIT 6 DAYS, RESCUED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BEUTHEN, Germany, Jan. 10.—After being entombed six days in the Karsten Zentrum pit, seven coal miners tonight were removed. They were uninjured but completely exhausted. Crumbling rock, which toppled during earth shocks last Monday imprisoned 14 men in the pit. Although hope that the men would be brought out alive had been abandoned, air was steadily pumped into the shaft. Rescuers this afternoon heard faint signals. Two hours later seven survivors were reached. Efforts are being continued to save the other seven miners.

STABS ROBBER TO DEATH.

Maurice Green, 20 years old, 4641 St. Lawrence avenue, a Negro, was stabbed fatally early yesterday by William Dale, 4219 Indiana avenue, also colored, when he attempted to hold Dale up in front of 433 East 44th street.

MITCHELL GEM ROBBERS APPEAR IN COURT TODAY

Four members of the "42" gang will appear today before Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady in Waukegan, preparatory to their trial for the $150,000 holdup of the Lake Forest home of William H. Mitchell. The defendants are Frank Tufano, Joseph Perello, Paul Ross, and Nick Maentanis.

At the hearing today State's Attorney A. V. Smith will announce whether he will prosecute the men for robbery or burglary. The trial proper is scheduled for Thursday.

The defendants and one other man, unapprehended, are accused of raiding the Mitchell home on the night of Nov. 21 and robbing the Mitchells and seven guests. The seven were Mrs. E. A. Cudahy Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, Mrs. DeKoven Phelps, Mr. and Mrs. William McCormick Blair, and Ralph Hines. All are expected to testify at the trial, Col. Smith said.

PORTER DIES ON TRAIN.

John Golden, 54 years old, a Negro Pullman porter living in Washington, D. C., died of heart disease yesterday as the Pennsylvania railroad limited train on which he worked was pulling into Chicago.

Judge Kavanagh Enters Hospital for Observation

Judge Marcus Kavanagh, dean of Superior court jurists, who was injured in a fall outside of the county building Jan. 5, entered St. Luke's hospital yesterday for observation. There is nothing acute in his condition, physicians said. Since his fall, Judge Kavanagh remained in his room in the Auditorium hotel under a doctor's care. He was up yesterday, and walked into the hospital.

50% OF COUNTY SCHOOLS SEEN NEAR SHUTDOWN

Finance Crisis Cuts Off Operating Money.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A large part of the Cook county suburban and rural schools, as well as the Chicago schools, were in financial difficulties last September. Since then their condition has been growing worse, until it is now a question of how long they can continue to operate.

"I believe that within 60 days," said H. A. Parks, president of the Western Springs state bank yesterday, "50 per cent of the schools of the county will be closed or operating without revenue."

New Organizations Formed.

Mr. Parks' opinion is influenced by the data so far collected by the superintendents' round table and by the School Officials' association. These are two newly formed organizations which are endeavoring to collect and correlate the financial status of all of the schools outside of Chicago in Cook, Dupage, and Lake counties.

The superintendents' round table is composed of the superintendents of the five counties in the metropolitan area. Frank A. Jensen of Rockford is president and John R. Rowe of Western Springs is secretary. The school officers' organization is headed by Allan Carter of the Evanston high school board, with Bertram Kohler as secretary. From the fragmentary information these organizations have collected, it is estimated that more than 65 per cent of the teachers of Cook county, excluding Chicago where this one school board alone owes its employés $24,174,040 — are working without pay, or are getting only a part of their salaries.

Get "Teachers' Orders."

Part of them are getting no cash whatever. Instead they are receiving "teachers' orders," which means a check upon the school treasurer, who marks it "no funds." This order, so marked, bears interest at a stipulated rate, and in a restricted sense is negotiable where the butcher, grocer and landlord know the school district.

Others have been getting half cash and half teachers' orders; but there are comparatively few which now have cash. A number of teachers resigned during the Christmas holidays when they were able to find teaching jobs in Iowa, Missouri, and Indiana, where compensation is paid in cash.

Glencoe, Western Springs, and Brookfield have closed their schools. The Western Springs schools, however, will reopen this morning when a drive starts to collect $20,000 from the 512 families with children in schools and others interested in the welfare of the suburb. The campaign has been organized under the American Legion with 100 men under the direction of J. Herbert Cattell, who raised the $5,000 last spring for the community chest.

Glencoe Hopes to Reopen.

Glencoe is attempting to prevail upon property owners to pay their taxes in advance of receiving bills, and hopes hereby to reopen its schools next Monday.

Drives to obtain cash from citizens with which to operate the schools are being pushed in Highland Park, Evanston, Winnetka, Oak Park, La Grange, Chicago Heights, and Brookfield. Wealthy residents of Highland Park have donated $15,000 to keep their schools open. Oak Park has sold about $60,000 in tax anticipation warrants and the others smaller amounts.

The chief hope of relief for the suburban and country schools in Cook county lies in the passage of house bill No. 15 by the special session of the legislature. This would increase the bonding power of school districts from 2½ per cent to 5 per cent of the assessed valuation and permit the issuance of bonds for all school indebtedness. This is mothered by Mrs. Anna Ickes, who has succeeded in getting it out of the educational committee of the house.

The other alternatives are to increase the tax rate, which nearly all of the school directors deem unwise, or cut the school expenses. School expenses in most of the suburbs are much lower than in Chicago.

Western Springs Typical.

Western Springs is not far from typical of the suburban schools. It works its kindergarten teachers both morning and afternoon.

Its salary schedule is considerably lower than Chicago's $1,500 to $2,500. Western Springs has one teacher at $1,100, two at $1,200 each, six at $1,300 each, seven at $1,400, five at $1,500, 4 at $1,700, two at $1,800, and one at $2,200.

Despite that apparent low cost of operation, its board has $148,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants, school "teachers' orders" and other paper outstanding. In addition its bonds in the hands of the public total $192,000.

CAPEZIO, CAPONE GANGSTER, HELD AS HOLDUP MAN

Tony Capezio, a leader of the notorious "Circus" gang and a Capone hoodlum, and John De Bias, alias John Banana, surrendered at the Cragin police station yesterday and were held as suspects in the robbery on Jan. 5 of the St. James Building and Loan association, 5717 Fullerton avenue. Martin Rzeczkowski, manager of the association, and Mrs. Agnes Shoemaker, the cashier, identified De Bias at the station. Policeman Mark Keane, who was robbed of his revolver in the holdup, identified Capezio as the second robber. The bandits obtained several hundred dollars and $10 from Mrs. Shoemaker after forcing them and fifteen customers and employés to lie on the floor.

Capezio, who was a suspect in the St. Valentine massacre, loudly protested he was above such pilfery. He, with De Bias, was taken to the police showup, the first time since he was arrested for deportation several months ago. De Bias, who owns a restaurant at Western and Grand avenues, is said to be a minor politician on the west side. He denied also that he was involved in the robbery.

Boehm Tells How He Was Slugged in Wheaton Garage

Bruno J. Boehm, west side real estate dealer who was found slugged and tied to the wheel of his automobile last Thursday in Wheaton, was sufficiently recovered yesterday to make a statement to Police Chief Lyle Grange and other officials of the village at the Elmhurst hospital. Boehm said that the stopped his automobile at the door of the garage of a model home in a subdivision in which he was interested, and that as he did so he heard a voice say, "Drive on in." He looked about, saw no one, drove into the garage and was slugged with a pipe, he said. He had only $10 or $15 in his pocket at the time. Chief Grange refused to comment.

MAKERS OF FALSE TEETH TO OPEN SESSIONS TODAY

When the National Society of Prosthetists opens its convention in the Stevens hotel today one of the first things on the program will be a class in esthetics, to be conducted by Dr. B. L. Hooper of Lincoln, Neb.

For the information of the uninitiated, prosthetists are manufacturers of false teeth, the membership of the society being confined to those who make full sets of uppers or lowers. Dr. Hooper is to tell them the latest developments in making their wares appear beautiful.

The prosthetists' meeting will precede by a week the annual convention of the Chicago Dental society, which is expected to attract several thousand visiting dentists from all parts of the country. Final plans for the convention were made at a meeting of the society yesterday in the Stevens.

DANDRUFF
Ends Overnight!

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid Arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid Arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy never fails.

Have Color in Cheeks

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should try Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 20 years of study.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause.

Fearful He May Upset Renomination.

that connection under conditions in the Republican party vividly recalling the circumstances under which James G. Blaine resigned as secretary of state forty years ago to become a candidate for the Republican nomination against President Harrison. Then, as now, the Republican President had suffered a tremendous loss of popularity in his party which nevertheless felt constrained to renominate him because to repudiate him would have been construed by the Democrats as Republican confession of failure in the highest public office.

Have Doubtful Choice.

By such reasoning, Republican leaders nowadays are wont to rationalize what they consider the inevitable renomination of Mr. Hoover despite the widespread unpopularity of the President in his party. We may be beaten with him, they say in effect, but if we throw him overboard we confess failure and will deserve defeat.

Thus, beholding defeat whichever way it turns, the party is plunged into the depths of dejection, as was apparent from private confessions of committeemen at the recent meeting of the Republican national committee and from the public utterances of such leaders as Chairman Fess, who appealed for a program to "sell Mr. Hoover" to the people.

The only glimmer of hope perceived by the Republican searchers of the political skies is that prosperity will set in before next November or that Mr. Hoover will withdraw as a candidate before next June. Few seem to entertain any more hope of the latter than of the former, but there is considerable talk of petitioning him to stand aside "for the good of the party."

Would Be Ironic Climax.

The comment of one cynic on this move was that if anything were wanted to crown the dramatic ironies embroidering the rise of a promoter of British mining companies to President of the United States, it would be his retirement for the good of a party that he was not sure he belonged to a scant decade ago when he was running in Democratic primaries.

No one expects Gen. Dawes to lend countenance to any move to pit him against the President for the nomination. But if by any chance Mr. Hoover should withdraw, a stampede to Dawes would be wholly logical, though perhaps complicated by efforts to draft Coolidge and by commitments of some states to Hiram Johnson.

In any event, it is not doubted that the booming of Dawes for Hoover's shoes, for which Ruth Hanna McCormick has set the example, will go forward and that scores of uninstructed anti-Hoover delegates will be elected to the Chicago convention intent upon the nomination of Gen. Dawes or any one but the President.

Supernaturally enough, the spook of a potential Dawes candidacy on Dawes' home grounds is now hovering over the White House less than a month since the Hooverites acquiesced to the selection of Chicago for the convention city, with misgivings that the nominating body in such an atmosphere might be influenced by anti-Hoover demonstrations.

Some there are who think that in default of an opening for the presidency the ambassador would be tickled pink to be nominated again for Vice President, asseverating that he was cheated of renomination at Kansas City by the influence of Mr. Coolidge, who never liked him, and by the lack of any influence in his behalf by Mr. Hoover.

In this connection it may be stated that renomination of Vice President Curtis is far from a certainty. There is widespread demand even among the Hooverites for a moister running mate for the President.

SMITH'S FRIENDS FORCE HIS HAND ON CANDIDACY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 10.—[Special.]—The Democratic political pot is bubbling in this state and the man in the street is talking politics as he never has before. The current sensation concerns the presidential ambitions of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and today it looks as if the titular head of the party has been smoked out of his make believe political hibernation.

Al Smith undoubtedly is a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. Whether he will step into the "battle royal" and fight or whether he will sit back and wait for a possible deadlock on the convention floor in Chicago next June, even Mr. Smith does not know today.

There is a well authenticated story going the rounds that Mr. Smith virtually "threw his hat into the ring" at a recent private dinner. A group of editors and politicians were the guests of John J. Raskob, national Democratic committee chairman, at dinner the other night. It was carefully explained that what transpired was not for publication.

Will a Duck Swim?

After considerable water and other liquids had run under the bridge, Mr. Raskob asked if any one cared to put a question. One of the guests arose and inquired:

"Will Gov. Smith run for President?"

It is reported that silence hung as heavy as a Long Island duck dinner over the gathering. The host cleared his throat a couple of times and began to splutter.

Finally, so the story goes, Mr. Smith responded. What he said has been virtually reported.

The most authentic of the various versions quotes the former governor as remarking:

Others who insist they got their information from dinner guests report that Mr. Smith said:

"How do I know whether or not I will be a candidate in November? There are a lot of dark horses in the field. The convention delegates have not been named. Whether or not I'll run is for the convention to decide."

Can't Keep Secret.

There was an agreement among those present that what transpired at the dinner would be kept secret, but the editors and politicians present began to gossip among themselves and in a few days most of the details of the dinner were more or less public property. There is no way to check the exact statement, but it is known that Mr. Smith now is considered an out and out candidate for the nomination.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt has been slipping from the commanding lead for the Democratic nomination he held a month ago, according to political prophets here who attribute his lessening popularity to other things than the efforts of Mr. Smith and Mr. Raskob to stop him.

They say that Gov. Roosevelt has been trying to please too many different parts of the country. It is pointed out that Roosevelt is wet to some of his followers, semi-dry to others, that he is both a friend and foe of Wall street, that he is a liberal and a conservative.

In a recent trip into the south, this reporter was told by a nationally known political observer that the general supposition that Gov. Albert C. Ritchie would be the "man to stop Roosevelt" and that Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, would step in and grab the nomination was "a lot of bunk."

He's Man to Watch.

Former Gov. Smith, according to the the Southern Political Observer, will be the man to watch if there is a deadlock at the Democratic convention, and he will, in the words of this man, "bear watching from now on."

Meanwhile there is constant activity at the Democratic campaign headquarters here. "Victory dinners" are to be held in fifty of the larger cities and towns from coast to coast next Thursday evening.

Here in New York more than 1,500 reservations have been made at the Astor hotel where Gov. Roosevelt will speak. Among the others on the program are John W. Davis, general chairman of the victory campaign; Senator Robert F. Wagner, and Congressman Henry T. Rainey.

The fifty or more victory dinners will be held in thirty states, and arrangements have been made, it was announced at headquarters, for hundreds of smaller communities to listen in at radio parties.

DENY 'HIT-RUN' STORY; NAB COP IN GIRL'S DEATH

Seized After Taking Auto Victim to Hospital.

Policeman Frank Koffman of the Harvey force was arrested last night on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. It is alleged that Koffman was the driver of an automobile which struck and fatally injured Virginia Wiedenhoft, 9 years old, 13517 South Chatham street, Blue Island.

The accident occurred at Canal street and Western avenue in Blue Island yesterday morning while the little girl was on her way to Sunday school. Koffman took her to the St. Francis hospital, where she died.

According to the policeman, another automobile struck the child and he picked her up and took her to the hospital instead of pursuing the car, feeling that her life might be saved by quick action. He told hospital attachés his name and address, but did not report the accident to the police.

His version was disputed by Eleanor Dvora, 12 years old, a witness of the accident. She declared that the car which struck Virginia was the same which crashed into the girders of the bridge over the sanitary district canal and from which Koffman stepped. Koffman declared that he swerved his car into the bridge to avoid striking Virginia.

The warrant for his arrest was signed by the girl's father, Martin Wiedenhoft, at the Blue Island station. Koffman was taken into custody when he reported for work in Harvey. He was released on bonds of $10,000 furnished by Mayor Frank Bruggeman of Harvey.

The child's death and one other raised the Cook county automobile death toll to 36 since Jan. 1. The other victim:

Betty Jane Lagerman, 7 years old, 3921 Rokeby street, and Lanty McCafferty, 21 years old, also believed to be a resident of Chicago, were killed when the car which young McCafferty was driving skidded off the road and into a deep ravine on United States highway 51, about fifteen miles north of South Haven, Mich.

Norman Lagerman, 4 years old, and Clifford, 3, brothers of the dead girl, were critically injured. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Lagerman, received minor injuries.

SYRIANS DECIDE FOR A REPUBLIC; PICK PRESIDENT

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BEIRUT, Syria, Jan. 10.—The long discussed question of whether Syria is to be a monarchy or a republic has been brought to a head by the nomination of a president.

At a caucus held at Aleppo last week most of the newly elected Nationalist deputies, forming an overwhelming majority of the new parliament, decided to name Subhi Bey Baraket for president of the potential Syrian republic. The election will take place when parliament assembles.

A republican régime is provided under the Syrian constitution approved by France. Baraket Bey headed the Syrian government in 1925, before the Druse revolt started.

PERU AMAZED BY BARING OF SHADY BOND DEALINGS

Senate Inquiry Is Called Stupid Intrusion.

BY C. N. GRIFFIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, Jan. 10.—The testimony on Peruvian financing given by representatives of J. & W. Seligman company, banking house of New York, at the senate finance committee hearings in Washington Friday, was accorded wide publicity here and has occasioned general amazement among opponents as well as friends of the former Leguia administration.

The testimony, given by Frederick Strauss and his younger partner, Henry C. Breck, of the Seligman house, was that they had paid Juan Leguia, son of the former president of Peru, Augusto Leguia, $415,000 in "commissions" for acting as agent in the flotation of $100,000,000 worth of Peruvian bonds.

Mr. Strauss explained that "we had no knowledge" of Leguia's interest in the transactions until "a long time afterward . . . and when we found out, it was something we did not like."

Publicity Disliked.

Interviews with representative bankers indicate that the present Peruvian government doubts the wisdom of further publication of dispatches on the senate inquiry. They consider it of a provocative nature, holding that it tends to cast oil on smoldering embers rather than on troubled waters.

While opponents of the Leguia administration hail the testimony as a verification of bribery and corruption charges, friends of the former president point out that the loan terms were made public at the time of issue, that they had congressional approval and that they were considered reasonable and favorable.

The former president has repeatedly specified that the question of commissions did not concern the government, must be dealt with by bankers and are deductible from their profits.

Ex-President Injured.

While the truth of the testimony affecting the son, Juan Leguia, is unquestioned, its dissemination abroad is regarded as gravely injurious to the position of the former president, who has been held in prison for nearly eighteen months and is unable to defend himself against such intimations and allegations.

A graver aspect of the situation, it is pointed out, lies in the fact that such declarations are gratuitously placing in the hands of the exponents of repudiation here ammunition which would be seriously damaging to the interests of American and other foreign bondholders.

"Unbelievable Stupidity."

A former minister of state called the senate proceedings "more than an indiscretion, an unbelievable exhibition of stupidity in international finance and an ill advised intrusion of American politics into the politics of this republic. Leguia, the former president, in addition to facing trial here, is evidently being tried in Washington as well, with Senator Hiram Johnson and others as the accusing counsel, jury and judge."

Representatives of European financial interests are inclined to shrug their shoulders and smile at the proceedings as a purely American political pyrotechnic display, damaging to all American interests indiscriminately to a far greater extent than the senators realize.

CROWD SNATCHES PRISONERS FROM POLICE IN INDIA

BULLETIN.

AHMEDABAD, India, Jan. 11 (Monday).—(AP)—Mrs. Mohandas K. Gandhi, wife of Mahatma Gandhi, was arrested today in a village in the Surat district.

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Two disturbances, one in which a crowd estimated at 12,000 persons rescued three prisoners from police, were reported today in India's forbidden struggle against British authority.

Police charged a crowd at Karachi with staves after a public meeting which had been declared unlawful, and 28 persons were injured. The other occurrence was at Srinigar, where an armed crowd attacked the police station and rescued three prisoners charged with attempted arson.

They were the only disorders reported and the relative calm that hung over the country was interpreted by observers in two ways.

The more pessimistic said it was "the calm before the storm." Others among the British community interpreted it as a justification of the government's "firm hand" policy. With the arrest of leaders in the Indian national congress movement, they said, the movement appeared to be subdued and work along the lines laid down by the recent round table conference at London could proceed with some approximation of peace.

The British government's intention, as outlined by Prime Minister MacDonald at the end of the round table conference, is to "lead India" to a position where she could make herself responsible for her own government.

Mahatma Gandhi, nationalist leader, who is in jail at Yeravda, near Poona, and other national congress leaders arrested in the British effort to block a resumption of civil disobedience and other anti-British manifestations, have contended for full independence.

BRITON SUGGESTS TAXING GRAFT TO AID CHICAGO

Oliver Baldwin, radical son of a famous Conservative, Stanley Baldwin of England, offered a suggestion for the fiscal relief of Chicago last night as he passed through the city on a lecture tour.

Mr. Baldwin, who is 32 years old and a former member of parliament, would impose a tax of 80 per cent on graft in the conduct of municipal affairs. "That should yield enough revenue to pay your school teachers and policemen, if what I hear is true," said the young Laborite.

"If you think you have hard times in this country you ought to go to England," he said.

MURDER VICTIM IDENTIFIED.
A man found murdered in the Alpin hotel, 27 East Harrison street, Saturday morning, his head beaten in with a water pitcher, was identified yesterday as Charles Pagel, 39 years old, 9954 South May street. He had registered as C. S. Jones and shared a room with a man who registered as W. Williams. Police are seeking Williams.

EVANSTON CUTS ITS TAX RATE A SECOND YEAR

Most of Other Suburbs Show Increases.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

In contrast with Chicago's 9 to 9½ per cent boost in its 1930 tax rates, Evanston has decreased its rate a trifle more than 2 per cent. Several other suburbs also have lowered their taxes from the 1929 figure and consequently County Clerk Sweitzer has established lower rates for them. In this group are Arlington Heights, Chicago Heights, Dolton, Hazel Crest and Homewood.

However, the average tax rates of 44 cities and towns, as a sample of the suburban area within Cook county, shows an increase, although the increase is less than half the rate boost within Chicago.

High Increases in Some Suburbs.

Certain suburbs show a larger increase than Chicago. Alsip's rate is up 10.9 per cent; Justice boosted its rate 10 per cent; Flossmoor, 12 per cent; Golf, 13.9 per cent; and parts of Blue Island, 17 per cent.

Below is a comparison of the tax rates for 1928, 1929, and 1930 in 44 suburbs. In suburbs containing more than one school district or park district there are slight variations in the rates. In each instance the rates for the three years relate to the same territory in each suburb, and are therefore on a comparable basis. The table, giving the name of the community, the number of the school district, and the tax rates for each of the three years, follows:

Suburb—	School dist.	1928.	1929.	1930.

Chicago Groups Will Plead for Action on Relief Bills

Cook county will send to Springfield for the reconvening of the general assembly tomorrow a strong delegation to plead for the enactment of the bill to abolish the board of assessors and the board of review and other measures intended to relieve the financial stringencies of the local governments here.

Before leaving Washington for Miami where he hopes to get a few days' rest, Mayor Cermak sent word that he thought it best to send to the capital a crops of workers capable of doing some effective lobbying with opponents of the Cook county relief program.

Make Income Tax Issue.

When he addressed the assembly last Tuesday, Mayor Cermak said his talk was his last word, his final plea, but since that time a form of deadlock with downstate has developed because of the opposition of Chicagoans and others to the income tax bill, the enactment of which is demanded by the rural districts.

For that reason the mayor urged that representative Chicagoans should go to Springfield to prove to proponents of the income tax that the adoption of this levy should have no bearing on the Cook county program. It was announced that Clayton F. Smith, county recorder and chairman of the Democratic county managing committee, P. A. Nash, chairman of the Democratic county central committee, and a number of ward committeemen had agreed to go to Springfield on this mission.

Others to Present Plea.

It also was planned to send a committee of aldermen headed by Jacob M. Arvey, James B. Bowler and other council leaders, a delegation of the county board led by President Emmett Whealan, and a group from the drainage board including President Thomas J. Bowler and Trustee Ross A. Woodhull. In addition it is expected that a number of judges including Judge Henry Horner will go to the capital.

There also will be representatives of the teachers' organizations, the associations of policemen and firemen and a number of union labor spokesmen to plead for the Cook county bills.

Technically both houses meet at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, but the senate session will be of the "perfunctory" variety, that chamber actually getting down to work at 4 o'clock. In the house of representatives the income tax bill is a special order of business.

MALONE BLAMES SPOILS POLITICS FOR TAX BURDEN

That spoils politicians are more destructive of good citizenship than are gangsters was one of the assertions made before the fellowship club of the North Shore Baptist church last night by William H. Malone, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

"The gangster," he said, carries his label with him, while the other element remains smug and condones all the evil of public life.

"I believe that the one essential task to be performed by all public officials is to join in the purging of public pay rolls instead of padding them. Our tax burden has passed beyond the limit that society can stand. The cost of government must come down out of sheer necessity."

TRANSATLANTIC SHIPS HAD BAD PASSENGER YEAR

New York, Jan. 10.—[Special.]—Transatlantic passenger ship suffered a severe loss of patronage during the year just ended, all routes and most of the classes of service reporting totals far below those of 1930. Passengers on all routes in the Atlantic totaled only 939,468 during the year, according to figures compiled by the transatlantic passenger conference. This represents a loss of 395,389, or 29.62 per cent from the total of 1,334,857 carried during 1930.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

A DEBATE IN A VACUUM.

Some senators are saying a good deal about the terms on which the United States government is to sell its next bond issues. The debate on the reconstruction corporation is typical. Mr. Glass and others hold that the debentures of the corporation, though they are to be guaranteed by the treasury, are not to be regarded as government bonds by the reserve system. Other senators are opposed to granting tax exemption. And so on.

The argument over these points is noteworthy for only one reason: it shows the utter lack of appreciation on the part of the members of congress of the simple fact that a loan requires action by at least two parties. The lender's wishes must be considered as well as the borrower's. When the borrower's credit is extraordinarily sound, when there is next to no doubt at all of his ability to pay principal and interest as they fall due, he may dominate any discussion as to the terms of a loan. But when his credit is strained, when doubts arise as to his ability to meet his obligations, then the lender has the last word as to terms. The borrower will accede to the lender's conditions, or he will not get the money he wants.

No one in Washington seems to have any adequate appreciation of the fact that the credit of the United States government is by no means what it once was. A year which ended with a deficit of close to a billion dollars, to be followed by another year with a deficit of more than two billion dollars means that the United States treasury has borrowed or will have to borrow these vast sums to square its accounts. All that treasury officials have promised the country for the succeeding year is that the deficit—and hence the sum to be borrowed—will be less than the preceding deficit if business revives and income tax receipts are correspondingly higher.

A government whose immediate past contains a record of huge deficits and whose future, as far ahead as it can be forecast, contains other deficits of indefinite proportions is in no position to dictate the terms on which it will obtain loans. The fact that the government in question happens to be the government of the richest nation in the world means merely that its borrowing capacity is greater than that of smaller, poorer and weaker nations. It does not mean and it cannot mean that there is no limit to that nation's credit. If proof is required it can be found in the recent record of the bond market. Other bonds have shown a tendency to rally, but United States obligations have shown no corresponding rise.

The United States treasury has been obliged to borrow because of the reckless extravagance of the tax eaters in Washington, who have spent billions more than they had any reasonable expectation of collecting from the taxpayers. Those who have money to lend understand the situation in all its details. They have seen Great Britain, head of the greatest empire the world has ever known, repudiate a quarter or more of its debts overnight because repudiation was the only course available to a government which had exhausted its credit. They have seen the richest city in the world, New York, obliged to pay 5½ per cent for a short term accommodation. They have seen Chicago, the second largest city in the land, unable to borrow so much as a 5 cent piece, primarily because extravagance has driven the local governments to bankruptcy. There is nothing sacrosanct about the credit of the United States. It, too, can be wrecked and it, too, will be wrecked unless the wastrels of Washington come to their senses before it is too late.

If congress continues its orgy of spending through the present session, the United States will be brought low—like Great Britain, Australia, and other countries and governments, and for the same reason. Congress can reduce expenses to meet income and the capacity of the taxpayers to pay and the United States will remain solvent; or it can indulge in ruinous socialist nostrums and destroy the credit of the United States. The choice is clear and it will be made at this session.

MR. STIMSON ASTONISHES EVERYBODY.

Mr. Stimson, it is reported, is regarded in London as very clumsy. It is said that the British government is satisfied with Japanese assurances and will not support the American state department. France also is reported to be irritated by the American procedure. Each nation involved in the nine power treaty has its own particular reasons for any position it will take and all of these reasons will be found with one particular motive—national self-interest.

In Mr. Stimson's latest note he mentioned, for the first time, American rights. So strange a note in American diplomacy would be regarded in London as clumsy, even preposterous, and it probably would irritate the French and other peoples who have been taught that Americans have no rights. Mr. Stimson, however, may take consolation. If precedent seems to make it the duty of an American secretary of state to please other countries than his own a departure from such tradition will not irritate all of his fellow countrymen. Mr. Stimson, in the end, may not get as many Scotch grouse, but there is good shooting here. It has to be admitted that he has made the Japanese mad, irritated the French, and drawn the fire of the British—that is, the world's two great armies and the greatest navy—and in exchange has the gratitude of China, the helpless giant which cannot keep a hostile army of 15,000 men from leaping over its great wall. Almost any peace loving diplomat might consider that a fair job for one sitting. Nevertheless, the good will of China is worth having if the United States could hold up its own end.

Mr. Stimson has said his piece. The United States will not recognize conditions and agreements forced upon China if they violate treaties, ignore American rights and injure American interests. If the state department will let it rest with that and cease sticking pins into Japan the United States may recover some of the advantages it lost when it was beguiled into the sham maneuvers of the league of nations.

GASOLINE TAXES FOR EMERGENCY RELIEF.

The proposal to permit Cook county to devote its share of the gasoline taxes this year, amounting to some $5,000,000, to emergency relief for the unemployed deserves support.

By private subscription $10,000,000 has been collected for relief. This sum, in the belief of the men in charge of the distribution of the fund, will be exhausted by the end, if not by the middle, of February, in spite of all economies in the use of the money that can be devised. The demands for help are overwhelming. It is estimated that there are more than 600,000 unemployed in the county. As their savings become exhausted the number of those who are absolutely destitute and dependent upon charity for every meal increases.

A county bond issue of $2,000,000 for relief was authorized, but there is no market for the bonds. Fortunately, despite the shortage of cash in the treasuries of the local governments, the gasoline tax funds are intact in the state treasury and available for use.

There is no doubt that the money could be spent to advantage on grade separations and in widening narrow roads in the metropolitan area. But these improvements can be postponed for a year with far less loss than will result from permitting hundreds of families to go undernourished and without adequate protection against a northern winter.

As a matter of fact, the legislature is guilty of gross indifference to the misfortunes of the industrial workers of the state when it does not devote every available penny—the downstate share as well as Cook county's—to relief. When the legislature votes to permit Cook county to spend its share of the gasoline tax on the poor the legislature is giving Chicago nothing. The county's share came from Chicago in the first place, and would have been spent in Cook county and by Cook county in any event. Cook county taxpayers have paid most of the cost of the state's hard road system and have received in return only a small fraction of the direct benefit. The rest has gone downstate. Under these circumstances the legislature would be doing no more than simple justice if it sacrificed some downstate road building for a year and turned over the ready cash now in the state road fund, about half of which came from Chicago, to meet the emergency in Chicago and other urban centers.

Downstate expects Chicago to contribute public and private funds to relieve the sufferings of victims of flood or drought, and the rural communities have not been disappointed, we believe, by Chicago's response to appeals for help. All the floods and all the droughts Illinois has ever known have not together caused a tenth part of the suffering to be found today within three miles of Chicago's city hall. With that fact staring men in the face it is no time to talk of the sacred obligation to build a hard road past Farmer Jones' door. It is certainly no time to tell Cook county that it may not use a small part of its gasoline tax payments for the relief of the poor.

A GARLAND FOR HERRIN.

California will be pleased to know that there are compensations in the strange shifts of climate which have been the meteorological phenomena of this young winter. Herrin, Ill., reports the full blooming of marigolds, fuchsias, myrtle, grape hyacinths, jonquils, cottage tulips, columbine, wistaria, etc. Against the turbulent background of the past a bower blossoms where once angry passions raged. It is now blooming and not bloody Williamson, a charming instead of a dread scene. How much better that Herrin should be known for its gardens rather than its gats. The people now love flowers and live in peace and grace. If any one gets shot it will be for trampling on the nasturtium beds. All Herrin needs is to borrow Aimee and it will then be apparent where the truant California climate has gone. It's no use hunting for it in the snowdrifts. It has slid into Herrin and Herrin tells the world. In its case Eden follows Cain, which is an encouraging improvement in the fate of man.

Editorial of the Day

[The Detroit News.]

Recently big cities of the country, worrying because of deficits, high taxes and tax delinquency, took a good deal of interest in the announcement that Milwaukee, Wis., goes into the new year with its budget claims met and several million dollars of surplus in its treasury. Those who were curious began to ask how it was done.

The great state of Wisconsin has something of a reputation in political matters. It has enjoyed for a good many years a distinctive type of leadership. In general, the people of Wisconsin appear rather to have prided themselves on being nonconformists in a very broad way. Theories that look good usually can be tried out in Wisconsin.

So when it became known that the metropolis of Wisconsin had achieved the unusual in municipal financing, some students of such matters began to investigate and to make some comparisons, and they found that in thrifty management the entire state of Wisconsin was setting a good example before other states of the same general area. They found that Wisconsin's next door neighbor, Illinois, has a per capita state debt of $25.54. And on the other side, Michigan's debt per capita amounts to $13.36. But Wisconsin could go out of debt if its inhabitants would chip in 47 cents apiece.

The so-called radicalism of Wisconsin seems to work pretty well.

QUIET REQUESTED.

"May I speak to Mr. Smith, please?"

"I am sorry, but he is very busy just now. He said that unless it was very urgent not to wake him."—Lustige Kölner Zeitung, Cologne.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

IT LOOKS AS THOUGH it is going to be the Democratic slogan and you might as well begin to learn it: "Any party which claims credit for the rain must take the blame for the drought." It was brought out by Claude G. Bowers, who keynoted at the Houston convention back in 1928. He pulled it with tremendous effect at the Jackson day dinner of the unterrified in Washington last Friday. "Any party which claims credit for the rain must take the blame for the drought." It's more than a slogan; it sounds like a theme song, the text of a sermon, the moral of a fable, the lesson for the day, the handwriting on the walls, and a lot more things. Mr. Bowers has keynoted again.

THEY'VE invented a brick in New York that is so much lighter than the old kind that the darned things float on water. A light brick may be a very fine thing from the economy standpoint, but what will they fight with over on the east side?

DISCREPANCY.

When a man would go away
Never think about him,
Curl your hair and paint your cheeks,
You're better off without him.

All kisses are the same, my dear,
When you have sampled many,
Original sin? Don't fool yourself,
There really isn't any!

Oh, this is very good advice,
It's meant to be rejected,
I'm only whistling in the dark

Tha Duke Horns In on tha Bridge Party.

Dick, What a sap I am. Lass Thursday afternoon was tha day selected by tha B an C to throw her unemployment card party. Me, tha big goof thought it was Friday an I was gonna claim I hadda work overtime an come in at ½ past seven, instead I blow in at 5:30 Thursday right in tha middle of their theme song "Chatter Magpie Chatter." When I opens tha door tha B an C greets me with a kiss. This is "boloney al'a visitors" cause if we didn' have company all I'd get wood be "If ya hafta come in tha front way wipe yer shoes." Ennyway, I gets told tha party is a success; I'd call it a howling one. Course I gotta be polite so I mozee in an out among tha tables an try to wise crack an I pulls a prize boner, a simp who had bid 3 hearts when she shood of passed ask me what card she shood play an I reaches for her ace of diamonds, when tha card hit tha table its tha ace of clubs, tha dam fool had painted nails an I thought I pulled a red ace. Another bimbo starts braggin about being the best player through-out tha city, if she was threw-out of tha city I'd like it better. I asks a dumb blonde at table No. 3 if she played contract an she answers "No, only bridge an casino," she shood still be playing London bridge is falling down. Her lame brain partner bids a 4 spade hand and gets 5 tricks, after tha hand was played she says, "I'll learn sometime," if she does my grandmother will too altho she's been dead 14 yrs. I asked her why she didn' buy a book on bridge an she claims she did but coodn' make head or tails out of it. I asked her which one she got an she tells me its called "Bridge of San Luis Rey," also that tha only reference to cards in it was something about a man named Pedro (an they jail janitors for making home brew) I bet if somebody ever asked her where tha "Bridge of Size" was she'd say Brooklyn. There was one chromo at tha next table who I asks if she ever read Works an she tells me that she's read all the works of Marie Corelli an Laura Jean Libby (I dunno, maybe I'm wrong). One of tha winners drew a fancy lipstick fer a prize, a lip clamp wood of been more appropriate. Ennyway tha girls mailed their 8 bucks to tha unemployment fund tha same night an yesterday tha B an C asks me if tha letter cood of gone astray, when I asks her what made her think it did, whatta ya think she says? DUKE BAKRAK.

P. S. "There was a hungry man came to tha door this morning."

A THRILL OF APPREHENSION has shot through the Democrats. Charley Dawes resigns and naturally there is born the horrible suspicion in the breasts of the Jefferson boys that he might get the Republican nomination. The way things were lined up before Charley kicked over the apple cart the election next fall looked as certain to the Democrats as freezing weather at the north pole, but Charley—tsk! tsk! tsk! the Democrats would have to get out and do a little plain and fancy fighting in the next campaign.

THE POLICE of Loz Onglaize have stopped the performance of Aristophanes' "Lysistrata" and arrested all the cast on the ground that it is not a nice play and shocked the truly good. We are pleased the police did not pinch the author, Mr. Aristophanes, but it is said they are watching at all depots and expect to nab him any time.

GOD'S GARDEN.

(To E. W. W.)

Of the flowers in God's garden
Surely He holds these most dear:
Lips that sing tho the heart be breaking;
Eyes that smile to hide a tear.

MARJORIE F. W.

AH, HERE'S A PRETTY THOUGHT! The law-making bodies of all sorts and minds are so busy putting taxes on us that they're faced with a terrible dilemma; they've taxed us on our incomes, autos, gasoline, what we buy, what we sell, property, inheritance, bonds, cigarets, hot dogs (now known as "turkeys"), and they can't think of anything more. So here's the big idea: Why not a tax on taxes? And then they could put a tax on the tax on the taxes. There's really no end to the thing. It's so good that we're sorry now we suggested it.

WE DON'T TALK so much as we used to about blue Monday. The other days are so often not only blue but black and blue. R. H. L.

BENZENE POISONING.

THAT benzene, sometimes called benzol, is capable of producing either acute or chronic poisoning has been known for a long time. The large number of uses to which it is put makes it a considerable industrial hazard, information which most employers and many employés have.

Dr. S. C. McCord thought of the possibility that the poisonous effects might be due to some impurity in the product and, if so, whether it might be possible to make a harmless but useful benzene. In his effort to solve this question he conducted an elaborate investigation in the laboratory and on animals, and he came to the conclusion that benzene was itself highly poisonous. It followed that no amount of purification would make it a safe product. He discovered that some of the chemicals found in commercial benzene were poisonous, but the worst of them was less poisonous than the pure solvent. In some cases these impurities had somewhat the same physiologic effect that the benzene did. In others they had opposite effects. For instance, one sign by which doctors diagnose benzene poisoning is a very low white blood cell count. One impurity sometimes found in commercial benzene causes a high white blood cell count. Therefore, in a case of poisoning due to this mixture a physician who based his diagnosis on a low white blood cell count would be misled.

People who work with benzene, or in any industry where benzene is used as a solvent, or for any purpose, should be constantly on guard. The following symptoms should cause a worker to suspect that he is getting too much gas and to go to the doctor to find out whether or not he is: Redness or irritation of the eyes, bronchitis, tenderness or bleeding of the mouth or gums, pallor, muscle weakness, vomiting, attacks of acute indigestion, dizziness, headache, feeling of a band around head or chest, small hemorrhagic spots under the skin, bleeding from any membrane, tremor, spasmodic jerking or twitching, insomnia, seeing things, being drunk without having had liquor, convulsions, marked change in the facial expression. Another list of symptoms includes the above and adds: Peculiar brackish taste, slight giddiness, unsteady vision, odor of benzene on breath, staggering in the dark, numbness, tingling, loss of weight. If any of the following conditions cannot be otherwise explained, and one works with benzene, he should suspect benzene poisoning: trench mouth, boils, pustules, frequent colds, and arthritis.

THIN ON THE TOP.

J. H. writes:

1. The hair on the crown of my head is thin. It is thick everywhere else. Is there anything known in hair treatment to thicken it?

2. A hair specialist [M. D.] said it was due to nerves; scalp specialist to undernourishment of the hair; and family doctor, to dandruff.

3. There is said to be a new cure for baldness in patches. What is it?

REPLY.

1. The best treatment I know of is daily washing of the scalp, and prolonged, thorough brushing. A new ductless gland treatment is on trial. Most people who try to stop hair from falling out waste their time. Sometimes they fail because they have no stick-to-it-ness.

2. What we don't know about hair would fill a book.

3. Of all the varieties of baldness, patch baldness is most curable. When due to certain causes it is cured by treating the cause. Some cases are not cured.

STARTING A DISCUSSION.

G. H. M. writes: I wonder if W. B. S. and others interested in migraine would not do well to pursue their investigations from a psychogenic rather than a pathogenic standpoint. Such a discussion would be of interest.

TREATMENT FOR ARTHRITIS.

C. A. P. writes: Is typhoid fever preventive serum ever used for treatment of arthritis? If so, how effective is treatment?

REPLY.

Typhoid vaccine and other killed bacteria are among the foreign proteids injected in some cases in the treatment of arthritis. This method of treatment is sometimes serviceable, but not in many cases.

SHE MAY HAVE PREPARED IT.

O. K. writes:

1. I read the other day that a woman died of tularemia, or rabbit disease, by eating a wild rabbit. Are not the germs of this disease killed by cooking or roasting at a temperature of 100 or 110 degrees C. or 212 degrees F.?

2. Or, does the person get the germs from the rabbit skin while dressing the rabbit?

REPLY.

1. They are.
2. The woman probably prepared the rabbit for cooking and that was when she was infected.

RECORDING CONTRACT.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In 1926 I entered a contract for the purchase of real estate—a lot in Du Page county. This contract was not recorded, the real estate company having a clause stating that if recorded the contract would be canceled. Recently (after it had been canceled for lack of payments) I had the contract reinstated.

1. Could this contract be recorded at this time? 2. How would recording affect the contract? 3. Where would I have to apply to have it recorded and what would the charge be? 4. 1930 taxes amounting to about $5 have not been paid. How does this affect recording? E. A. K.

1. Yes.
2. A court would not enforce the forfeiture clause, but if the vendor could prove damage arising out of your breach of the contract he would be entitled to recover such damage.
3. To the recorder's office at the county seat of the county in which the land lies.
4. It would not affect the recording.

PROVING CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—[Friend of the People.]—The writer was adopted as a foundling child and lived with the lady who adopted him for sixteen years, when she died. He never knew where he came from, so that a birth certificate has been impossible to trace. Now he has some doubts about his citizenship. How can he ever establish it legally so that he might visit foreign countries? He recently wished to make a trip to Canada, on business, but was afraid he might be prevented from returning. J. F. C.

This person should make every effort possible to ascertain the place of his birth and he should obtain the best proof possible. If a birth certificate cannot be obtained, persons who knew him in infancy and who knew the facts as to his birth should be asked to make affidavits. With such affidavits, he should apply for a passport to the state department, Washington, D. C.

District Director, U. S. Dept. of Labor.

PENSION FUND.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I worked for the city of Chicago for six years, but quit in 1921. I paid regularly into the pension fund during the six years. Can I collect the money I paid in? If so, would I get interest? T. Q.

Take the matter up with the officials administering the fund.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

This nation has had other serious financial depressions, as the following excerpts from The Tribune files reveal. Each of these periods of hard times has been followed by periods of great prosperity.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 11. — The monetary stringency continues and the demand for greenbacks is increasing. The effects of the stringency are now being felt by the industrial class of the community. The eight hour system is being practically carried into effect in many places, and with the reduction in working forces a reduction in wages keeps even pace. Many firms, especially woolen and cotton manufacturers, have suspended operations and the result is that thousands of workmen are idle at the season when a lessening of their funds is felt with the most severity. Almost all the large carpet mills in Kensington have suspended and discharged their workmen. Starr & Sons, iron founders of Camden, reduced the wages of employés 10 per cent.

Columbus, O., March 19.—Gov. McKinley was notified that people of Beaver, Allegheny, Washington, Fayette and Somerset counties in Pennsylvania are much worried over the proposed march of "Gen." Coxey's "Commonweal" army of unemployed through their borders as it moves on to Washington. He is asked to watch the "army," which is scheduled to leave Massillon on March 25. Many Ohio cities also express fear of the marching horde.

Watertown, N. Y., Nov. 1.—The New York Air Brake company issued notice that commencing Nov. 1 the salaries of all employés will be reduced 10 per cent. The company employs 3,000 men.

New York, March 10.—Wage reductions affecting 43,000 skilled workers and 26,000 unskilled workers have been announced by the New York Central and Hudson River railroad.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 11, 1916.

LONDON. — The Budapest Pester Lloyd estimates that more than 175,000 men have fallen so far in the Bessarabian fighting. This estimate includes the losses on both sides.

BERLIN.—According to every indication, the lull in the Russian attack on the Bessarabian front in the last 24 hours is only temporary. Despite enormous losses, new forces are known to be moving to reinforce the attacking columns and renewal of the desperate assaults of the last two days is hourly expected. The czar is said to have delivered an order to break the Austrian line at all costs. Captured Russian officers declare he visited Trembowla, Galicia, on the eve of the offensive with the object of giving heart to his troops.

BERLIN.—The British army at Kut-el-Amara in Mesopotamia has now been surrounded by the Turks, according to Constantinople advices. It is said the Turks have advanced to the main defenses of the British. The advices also say that the main British army in Mesopotamia is in retreat, 10,000 men having been left in Kut-el-Amara to cover the movement.

LONDON.—A great offensive movement has been started by the Germans in the Champagne. Berlin claims that French trenches on a wide front were captured. Paris reports that counter attacks enabled the French to reoccupy most of the positions. On the eight kilometer front running from La Courtine to Mont Tetu the battle continued during the day.

HAVANA.—In the trial of C. F. W. Neely and others charged with postal fraud, Reeves testified that Neely had formed a scheme to control all the revenues of Cuba and that the scheme was blocked by his arrest. Rathbone was to be civil governor of Cuba, Neely the treasurer, and Reeves the auditor.

LONDON.—The anger of the English people is rising rapidly with the repeated attacks on the British army made in public debate in the German reichstag. The Times, after declaring that seldom, if ever, has a friendly nation been so grossly insulted, warns the kaiser that the limit of British patience will be overstepped if Chancellor von Bülow continues to wipe his feet on the king's uniform.

BERLIN.—Another savage attack was made on Joseph Chamberlain during the budget debate in the reichstag. Herr Liebermann von Sonnenberg, whose hatred of Englishmen and Jews is coequal, delivered a furious tirade against England and Mr. Chamberlain. He declared that in the eyes of Germans Chamberlain is the "most infamous scoundrel on the face of God's earth."

WIVES AS SWEETHEARTS.

Harvey, Ill., Jan. 7.—Judge Graber of the Court of Domestic Relations made a bad start for the year in holding that "a married couple should not try to remain sweethearts," but only friends. He would deliberately discourage the preservation of the only basis for a happy marriage. More consistently, indeed, but not more rightly, he might hold that marriage should not be founded on romantic love at all, but he properly assumes its existence at the beginning of marriage. I wonder how long he would permit it to continue.

With due respect for the court, I beg to suggest that the exact reverse of his advice is what is needed. There is no legal tribunal to which an appeal from his dictum will lie, but, fortunately, he stands reversed, I venture to affirm, in millions of happy homes throughout the country in which the husband and wife are in love with each other, with no thought that they should not remain so. Here and there a couple may be found enjoying a mild form of happiness without love, but doubtless they are few, the happiness is far from exhilarating, and the situation not without its danger. Something beyond friendship is needed to sustain the most intimate and important of voluntary human relationships.

The old toast has the right of it: "Sweethearts and wives; may the sweethearts soon become wives and the wives always be sweethearts."

A BELIEVER IN SANTA CLAUS.

ECONOMY.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—The question which must be answered by the legislature at Springfield and the congress at Washington is, "How can we bring down the cost of maintaining the government to within the ability of the citizenship to pay?" rather than the question, "Where can we place a new tax that can be forced out of some group of people or class of business enterprises?"

Your editorial in today's TRIBUNE, "If Government Is to Survive," shows you are realising the true cause of existing conditions in general and dare to discuss them.

Until the ever mounting cost of government has been checked and a sufficient reduction made to bring the amount of taxes necessary to be levied to support the government within the physical ability of the citizens to pay, prosperity cannot possibly return.

We are now in the midst of the battle between the political machine office holders who will use every means at their command to retain every political appointment they now possess, and the true representatives of the citizens, who will honestly try to cut the cost of government by eliminating nonessential services and idle pay rollers.

If THE TRIBUNE will keep watch and let the public know the facts we will know who to vote for on election day and from our decision the unfaithful office holder will learn that it is the government that must and will survive, though it spells ruin for political machines. WILLIAM T. PRIDMORE.

FOR FLAG DAY.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—June 14 of each year has been set aside as Flag day. I have never seen any great demonstration or display of the flag on this day in the past. Therefore, I would like to suggest a great parade of school children of all ages and all grades, including public and parochial schools, high schools, academies, universities, each with its respective band, to march to a given point from each side of the city.

Each room with its teacher in command and each principal to act as marshal and the mayor to act as grand marshal and every one in line of march to carry a flag and a float representing each school's craftsmanship. All bands to mass for a great concert.

Make this an annual affair. It will help to stimulate business. It will give us all a chance to see the loyal teachers. It will take our minds off the depression this year. It will give out of town visitors and convention delegates something to talk about. JOSEPH L. CLEMENT.

I TOLD YOU SO.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—Wonder what Lothrop Stoddard thinks about as Japan, with tongue in cheek and thumb to nose at the league of nations, seizes all of Manchuria; Mahatma Gandhi smiles at prison and calls all India to a second peaceful revolt against England; a conference is held in Jerusalem for uniting all Islam; Mexico enters the league of nations voicing her disregard for the Monroe Doctrine; Cuba seethes with revolution; Sandino continues as sniper on Yankee marines in Nicaragua, and the American Negro joins the communist party?

That seer of the '20s should demand an international broadcast hookup and shout to the whole western world "I told you so! I told you so!" For so he did in 1920 in his book, "The Rising Tide of Color."

This rising tide of color seems to be the real cause back of all the depression. It is a test of white supremacy, of which the white world at large seems unaware or indifferent. A few weeks ago I was endeavoring to discuss with a group of Nordics, the future mothers and perpetuators of this white supremacy, the seriousness of the Japanese activities and their increasing rise to power. Two of the group sweetly informed me that there would always be a ruling class. What the poor dumb dears never realized is that granted there is always a ruling class, régimes change and rulers need not always be Anglo-Saxon; in fact, for only a short time in human history have they been, and most likely will not be in the future, judging by present happenings in the world at large. THE PRICE OF FUEL.

Oak Park, Ill., Jan. 6.—Why should fuel cost more in Chicago than it does in other large industrial centers that are about equally distant from the coal fields? Chicago and Detroit are about equally distant from the source of supply, local conditions and methods of handling are about the same, the cost of coal and coke, on track, is about the same, and the price, to the consumer, therefore should be about the same.

For the last four years, or a little more, the writer lived in Detroit, returning here about four months ago. For the first three years in Detroit he paid from $10.50 to $11.75 a ton for furnace coke. The fourth, or last, year that he was there, however, one of the very large dealers advertised coke at $7.50 a ton, delivered, the regular price at the time being $11.75. This firm announced over the radio that coke was costing the dealers there $6 a ton, on track, that the cut in price was being made in the interest of the poor of the city and because their firm was going to be satisfied with a profit of $1.50 a ton. What was the result? Within a week every dealer in Detroit was selling coke at $7.50 a ton, and some as low as $7 a ton.

Here in Oak Park the writer is paying $12.25 a ton for the same quality and grade of coke as he paid $7.50 for in Detroit. Has price fixing or dealer combination anything to do with it? T. F. M.

DESECRATING THE SABBATH.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 5.—Permit me to suggest that one of the worst menaces which this country has been forced to combat during the last fifteen years has been a continuity of European propaganda. That we have fallen for it, hook, line and sinker, witness the reputed deplorable loss of money which American investors face. It would seem that we have had enough of it, but not so. It has been so successfully worked and the results so gratifying that even our Sabbath day is being desecrated by an English broadcast in which the United States is informed what must be done to recreate prosperity. In view of England's deplorable economic condition, it would seem like carrying coals to Newcastle, and that while perhaps an international broadcast is proper, the broadcast should be going out of the United States to Europe. Let us not fall for further European chicanery. W. R. R.

MINERS HUNGRY AS STATE FIGHTS TO CONVICT REDS

Kentucky Coal Operators Trying to Continue.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harlan, Ky., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—The little brown churches far up the vales of the Cumberland mountains echoed today to fiery denunciations of the "Red Beast" of Revelations, while the sallow, hungry miners gathered in the towns to look for food from the emissaries of communism.

With the mines working only two or three days a week and several on the verge of receivership, this would seem a poor time to strike. It is a strike largely of those who had no jobs. The National Miners union, however, as a communist organization, has no such simple goal as winning a strike. It seeks a weak spot in "the capitalist system" and proceeds to make all the trouble possible. Here it is trying to arouse hatred of operators, some of whom have been keeping their mines open just for the sake of the men. This whole district could close and the coal market still remain unchanged.

Outside Relief Needed.

The situation calls for outside relief on a large scale, and then some sort of a new economic shifting that will relieve the labor pressure in the coal fields. The coal industry is a sick industry and cannot take care of the men who are dependent upon it. It is estimated that there are 20,000 in need of help this winter in this section.

"Tons of radical literature has been circulated in this section," says the Harlan Enterprise. "Most of this came from the international labor defense and the Daily Worker, communist newspaper. If a man and his family are hungry and the National Miners' union feeds him when no one else will, then he will be a friend of that organization. Unless the same tactics are used to combat this revolutionary group they have won the first step in the fight."

"Isolated," Editor Writes.

The Middlesboro Daily News says "Our people have lived in these hills for several generations. We have been isolated, not much in touch with the outside world. We have grown up a race of isolationists, proud, patriotic and loyal to God and country.

"The coal business went on the decline until in the last two or three years it has been almost helpless. Thousands have been cut off from employment. Instead of trickling back to their small farms they have lingered around the coal camps, hungry, wretched and in want. Our people are wondering what to do. Our coal operators are hanging on in a effort to save their investment; many mines are shut down completely; millions have been lost, and the end is not yet.

"Here, indeed, is a fertile soil for the agitator, the Red. Our miners unemployed and half time workers not understanding how to better their condition want to do something. They cannot understand how the operators cannot bring relief. They suffer in their silence and distress, like hungry sheep huddled on bare hillsides.

"We are just naturally not in the mood to have the communists come in, some from Russia, some from Pittsburgh and the slums of the foreign populated cities, telling us that conditions are bad here and stirring up our people with the cry 'Down with capitalists.' We have enough suffering without further inciting of brother against brother, friend against friend, neighbor against neighbor. It just isn't human not to want to resist the invasion of the Reds."

ARKANSAS EXPECTED TO ELECT CARAWAY'S WIDOW U. S. SENATOR

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Arkansas will probably give the United States senate its first elected woman member on Tuesday, when the widow of "Fighting Thad" Caraway stands as a candidate to succeed her husband. She is now serving by appointment.

The plain spoken little woman, one of the few of the senator's intimates who could worst him in a battle of wits, is the sole Democrat on the election ticket, which will fill the unexpired Caraway term ending in 1933.

She is opposed by two independents, but Democratic nomination in Arkansas is tantamount to election.

HERE IS NO. 1 CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

AMERICA this year celebrates the 200th birthday of George Washington —"Father of American Liberty." This is an occasion of great importance, as it recalls to us all the love of freedom that flamed in Washington's heart, and the many heroic deeds that brought the independence which has made America the best country on earth in which to live.

So, to commemorate this historic event and to help perpetuate the patriotism of George Washington, the Chicago Tribune announces to its readers this inspiring and educational series of Washington Bi-Centennial Crossword Puzzles. A review of the thrilling events in the life of Washington will not only prove interesting, but will, as well, impart a renewed admiration for the "Father of Our Country."

Men, women, boys and girls are invited to solve these puzzles. It is not difficult. Just solve them in the regular way.

An historic event in Washington's life is named in each puzzle. Solve the puzzle and name the event. You do not have to know Washington's history; the words come out automatically, as you solve the puzzle. Besides, there is a clue picture in each puzzle to help you name the event.

$5,000 in cash prizes will be paid for the nearest correctly solved complete sets. You do not have to solve all the puzzles correctly to win. Prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest.

Each day for 36 days, except Sundays, a new puzzle will be printed in the Chicago Daily Tribune. Solve each puzzle and hold them until you have completed the full series. Then send them in.

The RULES:

1. Each day for 36 consecutive days (except Sundays) the Chicago Daily Tribune will print a Washington Bi-Centennial Crossword Puzzle. In each puzzle an historic event in Washington's life will be named. You are invited to solve the puzzle and name the event.
2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved complete sets of puzzles in accordance with these rules. Note: This means that you do not necessarily have to solve each of the 36 puzzles correctly to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest.
3. This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.
4. Puzzles are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 36. Then send them to "Crosswords," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Puzzle No. 36 has been printed.
5. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Department. Make your entry simple and neat. Neatness will count.
6. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzles and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.
7. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

CORD SAYS COST OF GOVERNMENT SHOULD BE HALF

Says Cut More Important than Selling Autos.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 10.—[Special.]—A fifty per cent reduction in all government expenditures, national and local, is essential to American business and to the preservation of the government itself. This is the opinion of E. L. Cord, president of the Cord corporation, and he is preaching this doctrine while other manufacturers attending the 32d national automobile show here are talking about new models, mechanical innovations, design refinements, and reduced prices.

E. L. CORD.

"Taxes have increased," he told a meeting of 600 of his dealers, "until they are entirely out of proportion to the national assets. Without a substantial reduction taxation will ruin America.

"Unless governmental budgets are slashed there will be a revolution. However, I have no fears for the permanence of our institutions because taxes will be reduced. But it behooves every citizen, especially business executives, to wield his full influence to bring about this cut as soon as possible and to make the cut as large as possible.

Business Can Do It.

"A fifty per cent reduction is not too much to expect of our governments. The overhead expenses of the Cord corporation were slashed in half during the last two years.

"The overhead of government, national, state, county and municipal, will drop as soon as our elected office holders are made to realize that their tenancy in office depends upon how many appropriations they kill rather than how many appropriations they support. This will be brought about when every elector appreciates fully how much his individual welfare is being affected by high taxes.

"To me the most encouraging aspect of current public finance is that our political units have exhausted their credits. They are forced to curtail expenses. Even the closing of schools may be a blessing in disguise since it jolts the citizenry into an active interest in public affairs.

"I'm not holding myself up as an exemplary American citizen or student of politics. In the past, I have been as negligent of my government as the average business man with no direct interest in politics.

"But this tax crisis has jarred me loose from the selfish interests of my automobile business because the decrease in governmental costs has become more important to this industry, and to business generally, than an increase in motor car sales.

"I am not one to say prosperity is just around the corner and I haven't said so since the stock market crash of 1929. My opinions are to the contrary and I foresee no bright sky ahead until taxes are reduced."

Mr. Cord, 37 years old, with headquarters at 105 West Adams street, Chicago, is one of the few automobile manufacturers who increased production during 1931.

Auto Show Has Recess.

The national automobile show in Grand Central palace was closed today, but will reopen at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Tomorrow will be "international day" at the show, and hundreds of foreign representatives of manufacturing companies and motor organizations will attend the exhibition.

ERECT 45 ACRE BUILDING; STILL U. S. IS RENTER

Growing Bureaus Gobble Up Space.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—The new commerce building, with its forty-eight acres of office space, instead of effecting a sizable cut in the government's million dollar annual rent bill in the capital, has merely served to permit further expansion of the federal office force.

Despite demands of Democratic leaders on Capitol hill for drastic economies in government expenditures, the federal rent bill in the district is to be cut by only $45,000 a year as a result of the completion of the "world's largest office building."

No sooner had the commerce department begun its migration from the old to the new building, than other government departments began making plans to spread into the vacated rented space, including the old commerce building for which Uncle Sam pays $150,000 a year.

Only One Relinquished.

Only one of the five buildings, or parts of buildings, which housed sections of the commerce department before the completion of its new home, is to be relinquished by the government. This is the structure at 119 D street, formerly occupied by the coast and geodetic survey.

The four other buildings, including the old commerce building, are to be retained at an approximate cost of $300,000 a year. The interstate commerce commission is going to spread itself into the Hurley-Wright building for which the rent is $75,000, the labor department is to put some of its bureaus in the Winder building annex at an annual rental of $2,500, and the space in the National Press building, formerly occupied by the radio division of the commerce department is also to be retained, although it has not yet been decided who will use it.

Old Building a Problem.

The old commerce building is presenting a problem to the authorities in charge of the governmental office space in the district. It had been planned to shift the war department into it from the state department building in order that the remodeling of the state building could be done without making the state department vacate. It was thought that with plenty of room, the state department could so shift itself around as to not interfere with the construction work.

This scheme, however, fell through when congress refused to appropriate $3,000,000 for remodeling the state department edifice.

Nevertheless, the old commerce building is to be kept by the government, despite the fact that it is the largest single item in the annual rent bill.

All in all, the federal government rents 42 buildings or parts of buildings in the capital. Among them are the structures which house the labor and justice departments, the civil service commission and the interstate commerce commission. The total annual rent bill for 1,485,706 square feet provided in them is $1,206,903.

WOMAN ENVOY TO GENEVA SAYS TO BE PATIENT

Dr. Woolley Advises Stay-at-Homes.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—It won't do the Geneva disarmament conference any good for every Tom, Dick, and Harry in the United States to turn into an oracle and try to predict just what's going to happen there. But it will do a lot of good for its American well wishers to be both patient and persevering in their stay at home attitude toward that conference.

MARY E. WOOLLEY. [Herals & Ewing.]

This, in substance, but certainly not in phrase, was the text today of Dr. Mary E. Woolley, in her first public speech since President Hoover wooed her, temporarily, away from her presidency of Mount Holyoke college, and appointed her our only woman delegate to the coming conference.

Addresses Cheering Crowd.

Talking to a cheering crowd called together by the Women's International League, Dr. Woolley, mindful of her official position as delegate, stepped carefully around some of the bombs which earlier speakers had cast onto the platform, and did not enter into any specific discussion of advance programs, or total disarmament, or the like.

Instead, she counseled America to have patience and perseverance, with a bit of persistence thrown in.

Patience, she recommended, because the mills of the gods, especially when they be international mills, grind exceedingly slow. As an instance, she reminded her audience that every speech at Geneva will probably be translated into about fifty languages.

Says Dig Into Problems.

Then, lest there be too much inertia waiting back home and not enough force, she charged her hearers to dig into international problems, to understand them, and to fight for what they thought was right. She put it this way:

"But I would not leave you with too great emphasis upon the thought that 'they also serve who only stand and wait.' That philosophy is altogether too popular as it is. Looking at this audience one might easily labor under the delusion that this is alive to the critical importance of a new international relationship in the world. I do not need to tell you how widespread in this country is the lack of information. There is a lack even of interest in international affairs.

Urges Perseverance, Too.

"And so to patience I would add perseverance in awakening the intelligence of the people; and more important still in arousing their conscience to their responsibility as individuals for shaping the future."

If Dr. Woolley did not talk about a definite Geneva program, her audience, led by Mrs. Gerard Swope, chairman of the meeting, was more specific. It adopted a resolution calling upon President Hoover to provide the American delegation with "a clear cut and drastic program."

BUSINESS EDITOR FINDS TAXES GET $1 FROM EACH $5

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—The crushing burden of the costs of government was the subject of an address tonight by Merle Thorpe, editor of the Nation's Business.

Mr. Thorpe estimated the total cost of federal, state and local governments at 15 billions a year, which with the national income reduced to 70 billions a year means that one dollar out of every five goes to the bureaucracy. There are 250,000 tax gathering and tax spending units of government in the country, he said.

"We make little progress," he continued, "in our effort to reduce taxes. We do not realize that taxes mean activities and we are not yet ready, in our understanding of state affairs, to protest against activities which are the cause of taxes.

Grouped Under Three Heads.

"Such activities can be roughly grouped under three heads. First, in more than 250 undertakings, the federal government is competing with its own citizens, citizens who provide the wherewithal for such competition. From banking, insurance, transportation, manufacturing—production and sale of agricultural products, aircraft, anchors, awnings, automobile license tags, brooms and brushes, and on through the alphabet—to the operation of hotels and laundries and printing plants and warehouses.

"In defense of these activities, which the eminent gentlemen who designed our form of government did not contemplate, officials say that the people demand them. That is tantamount to saying that the people demand higher taxes. And if it be true that the people demand these activities, it is a sublime paradox that at the same time they are revolting against higher taxes throughout the country today.

Regulating Private Lives.

"The second group of activities which cost us money is the regulatory and the supervisory and the 'servicing' jobs which the government has taken on increasingly in the last few years. Every act of the individual, waking or sleeping, is now regulated by some public authority.

"In the third group of activities lie the numerous independent board and commissions set up willy-nilly at every gust of political wind.

"So it is that the individual today, particularly the business man, is slowly but surely having his freedom of action whittled away. He is failing progressively under the shadow of political administration—government. It is a real danger.

"For nearly 5 years I suffered awfully with Neuritis in my shoulder, back of my neck and head and had a "rash" all over my body that defied treatment. After reading statements which seemed sincere about WENVO, I decided to try it. That was the turning point in my search for health. I have taken it for 9 weeks and the improvement is remarkable. I sleep and rest fine the whole night thru. There is a great improvement in my nerves. "The excellent results I obtained from Wenvo are lasting and still enjoyed by myself, altho I have not taken any more of the medicine in the last 5 months," says Mr. John H. Bell, 1121 Harrison street, Kansas City, Mo.

"Wenvo completely and definitely corrected the bad stomach trouble I had for over 2 years, and at the same time strengthened and regulated my whole system to a point where I enjoyed every minute of life. I sleep and rest splendidly—meals taste good, and when the day's work is finished, I am not all in as formerly but am always ready to accompany my family in the evening's pleasure. HE KNOWS WHAT "QUICK" MEANS

It takes a man who must give "quick service" himself to appreciate what "quick service" means. Mr. Stanley Dvorak, 5132 S. Sawyer Ave., Chicago, reports: "Every time a radio belonging to a customer gets out of order I have to jump in the service-car and give him 'quick service.' I'm out in all kinds of weather, so I get a cough-and-cold once in a while. I had a pretty bad one some time ago. I tried lots of things to stop it, but it hung on to me and kept me awake at night. I saw a car-card advertising REM, and got a bottle. It did what it said it would do. My wife uses it, too." REM gives the "quick service" that is the big thing in keeping coughs from developing into something worse.

GOVERNOR TELLS DECISION TODAY ON SECOND TERM

Expect Announcement He Will Not Run.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson's long silence concerning his political plans is to be broken at Springfield this morning. His utterance is expected to be an announcement that he will not seek a second term.

GOV. EMMERSON.

The occasion for his speaking out will be a formal presentation of resolutions adopted Saturday at a meeting of Chicago ward committeemen and other Republican leaders. The resolution praised the governor's record, recognized him as the head of the party in the state, and pledged him support for himself or for his leadership in the approaching primary.

Works on Statement.

The governor, it was reported from Springfield, was occupied yesterday with the preparation of his reply to the delegation, and it was said that the statement probably will be of some length and not merely an acknowledgment of the tribute of political fealty.

This announcement from the governor's office is expected to be the first of a series of Republican moves that probably will continue through the week. However, it was learned yesterday that the announcement expected today from Omer N. Custer of Galesburg will not be forthcoming at this time.

Custer, who has served two terms as state treasurer and is now chairman of the state tax commission, is believed certain to run for the governorship nomination, but the latest information is that he will not enter himself until Gov. Emmerson has withdrawn from the field.

Hadley to Enter Race.

Another announcement looked for is that of Charles W. Hadley of Wheaton for attorney general. Following a conference with Gov. Emmerson last week, Hadley resigned as chairman of the commerce commission. It is known that he intends to seek the attorney general's office. He withdrew his candidacy for that place in 1928 when Attorney General Carlstrom withdrew from the governorship contest and decided to run for a second term as the state's chief law officer.

Secretary of State Stratton also may issue a formal declaration that he is a candidate for a second term, although party leaders say such formality is unnecessary. The consensus among them is that Stratton will have no important opposition for renomination.

The reason for this, they say, is that he is the only secretary of state in the history of Illinois who has paid into the state treasury all interest earned on funds in his hands with monthly itemized statements showing the amounts of deposits and the amounts of interest paid by all banks holding money belonging to the secretary's office.

TAXES 'DELINQUENT' NOW; PLAN BILL TO EXTEND PENALTY DATE

With the 1930 taxes delinquent under the letter of the law, although none of the bills for that levy are yet in the mails, County Treasurer McDonough has prepared a bill for presentation at the special session of the legislature to change the penalty from Jan. 1, 1932, to March 1.

Presentation of the measure will be contingent upon other legislative possibilities. If the 1930 levy is placed in collection under the present law all taxpayers will be subject to the penalty of 1 per cent a month for every month their bills remain delinquent. It is impossible that the bills be mailed for another week, the county treasurer said, and therefore it is probable that most taxpayers would be at least two months behind through no fault of their own. The bill is designed to correct this.

If, however, the legislature passes the tax funding plan there will be no necessity for the change in the penalty date.

Shanahan's Name Mentioned.

Recently there have been persistent rumors that David E. Shanahan, seven times speaker of the house of representatives, would be brought out as a candidate for the state auditorship, an office now held by Oscar Nelson. The theory of these reports has been that Nelson, as the result of bank failures during his present term, would not seek renomination.

Auditor Nelson has made no such decision. He said recently he was waiting for a statement of Gov. Emmerson's plans. And Speaker Shanahan says that he has absolutely no thought of seeking executive office such as that of auditor.

Two Republican candidates for the lieutenant-governorship have announced themselves. They are the incumbent, Fred E. Sterling of Rockford and John G. Oglesby of Elkhart, who held the office under the Lowden administration, 1916 to 1920.

ROBBER CAPTURED IN ACT.

Walter Mack, 25 years old, 3055 Farrell avenue, was arrested early yesterday by Detectives Martin O'Sullivan and Marion Mitchell of the Stanton avenue district as he was robbing Harold Mulenin, 5244 South May street, a driver for Mandel Brothers' department store, at 38th street and South Park way.

TRY 53 TODAY IN BIG MIDWEST LIQUOR CASE

Fifty-two men and one woman, alleged members of a $10,000,000 liquor ring that operated in four states in the middle west as a subsidiary of the Capone syndicate, will be placed on trial before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley today on a charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

Inquest Today on Dentist Killed in Fall from Roof

An inquest will be held today into the death of Dr. Milton S. Allen, 25 year old dentist, who was fatally injured Saturday evening in a fall from the roof of his home at 6657 South Ashland avenue. With Henry Scavone, 1548 West 67th street, and Thomas Shepton, 5741 South Spaulding avenue, Dr. Allen had gone to the roof to adjust a radio aerial. It is believed the fall occurred when he slipped on ice which had gathered on the roof.

SUICIDE BEATS WARRANT FOR OWNER OF BANK

Body of President Found in His Auto.

Metropolis, Ill., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—The body of William A. La Font, president of the Union State bank of Dowell, Ill., was found here late today in his automobile. He had committed suicide by drinking poison.

La Font, who was postmaster at Dowell, had been missing since the bank was closed yesterday morning. Authorities had been searching for him to serve a warrant charging him with embezzlement.

The automobile was standing in front of the home of W. P. Baynes, mortician, who is coroner of Massac county. An inquest resulted in a verdict of suicide.

W. H. Leek, one of the directors of the Union State bank, signed the warrant for arrest of the president. According to Leek, La Font had obtained $5,500 on a personal check and then continued to carry the amount on the bank's books as cash. It was also found that La Font had borrowed $24,500 from the institution without collateral.

State's Attorney Fletcher Lewis, who conducted an investigation of the bank's books with the aid of examiners from the office of State Auditor Nelson, said the institution had been found in good condition but that it would remain closed until a complete audit had been made of its affairs.

BUBBLE BURSTED FOR LOT OWNERS AT LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—Out of every 100 lots platted on the real estate records in Los Angeles county, 53 are undeveloped and eating their owners' purses inside out in taxes, assessments, and carrying charges, according to results of an investigation filed with the Los Angeles county regional planning commission by Engineer Charles D. Clark.

The report shows that a great slump in the activities of real estate boomers in this area from the last great easy money year of 1923 to 1932. In 1923, with county population of 1,378,685, a total of 1,434 subdivision maps were filed. Dozens of these were projects in the million dollar class. In 1932, with Los Angeles county population grown to 2,230,000, only 92 real estate project maps were filed.

Engineer Clark reports that there are more than 500,000 vacant lots, and says: "On each one some one is paying taxes and assessments, hoping to find a use for the lot or a buyer."

RAILWAY UNION HEADS ARRIVE FOR CONFERENCE

To Stress Job Relief at Meetings.

Members of the Railway Labor Executives' association yesterday began assembling in the Palmer house for preliminary conferences on the questions of wage reduction and betterment of working conditions, which they are to thresh out with the railway presidents beginning Thursday.

Those of the twenty-one labor executives, heads of the various railway crafts, who had arrived yesterday held private conferences, discussing the conditions under which they would accept a 10 per cent decrease in wages if the general conference comes to that end. Howeve., the labor chiefs are reluctant to discuss the wage reduction question, and insist that it is of secondary importance in the coming conference, despite the position of the railway presidents that it is first and foremost.

Wage Action Up to Roads.

David Bruce Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and chairman of the Labor Executives' association, declared that any discussion of the wage question at the general conference would have to be initiated by the railway presidents, nine of whom have been empowered to represent all the roads in the negotiations.

It is estimated that 500,000 railway workers are unemployed and the unions feel, according to their spokesmen, that work should be more widely distributed by the adoption of a six hour day.

The first important session prior to the plenary conference beginning Thursday will be held tomorrow, when 1,500 general chairmen, each heading all the employés of one craft on one road, will assemble to report the authority granted them by their respective organizations, with an aggregate membership of 1,250,000.

Vote Authority to Act.

This authority for final and binding action in the negotiations with the railway presidents will be conferred upon the twenty-one labor executives, but none can speak for the employés in his craft on any road who have not voted the authority.

The course of negotiations was determined upon by he general chairmen at a meeting here in December.

Accept Voluntary Cuts.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 10.—More than 34,000 railroad employés have voluntarily accepted 10 per cent reduction in wages in recent months. These were in addition to clerical workers, who have suffered 10 per cent reductions in salaries on many lines.

Latest of clerical and official staffs to receive the 10 per cent reduction are those of the Atlantic Coast Line railway. The New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Pennsylvania and other lines have made like or similar reductions.

About 23,000 Southern Pacific employés, including about 15,000 shop men, and 6,500 shopmen of the Illinois Central have accepted 10 per cent reductions in wages.

NICE NEW JAIL FORCED TO BAR ALIMONY CLUB

White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 10.—[Special.]—Warden George Casey of the new $900,000 modern Westchester county jail at Eastview, which he will open for prisoners to be transferred from the 100 year old jail at White Plains on Jan. 15, said today he was surprised that all the members of the alimony dodgers' club in the White Plains jail had paid up their back alimony and he would not be able to transfer them to the new institution.

A special section of the jail has been set aside for alimony club members with shower baths, radio in each room, and cells and other comforts which they could not enjoy in the historic White Plains institution.

Love of Roving Wins Hero of This New Book

While Wandering Heroine Loves the Hero.

"The Lost Caravan," by H. de Vere Stacpoole [Sears].

BY THE author of "The Blue Lagoon," "The Lost Caravan" is a romance with the simplicity and beauty of authentic prose poetry.

It is the story of the love of Jean and Karan. Jean, an artist, who has been struck with wanderlust, in his wanderings meets Karan, the gypsy, who also knows unconsciously that only in roaming may she find happiness. Jean paints her portrait and falls in love with her. When, later alone in Ragusa in the Dalmatian mountains, he, quite by chance, meets the Baron Stein who becomes interested in his work and asks him to paint a portrait of his mistress, the Baroness Hauptmarch.

Jean, however, cannot rest without finding Karan and the old man whom she accompanies, and for whom she begs a living. They meet again finally and are powerless to resist the urgings of their love. They take a small island near Ragusa. There they live in almost primitive simplicity. Jean again feels the need to paint and so calls on the baron. That gentleman is not at home, but Jean and the baroness decide to have the portrait ready for him when he returns. When the baron comes home and finds Jean and his mistress together he is seized with a fit of rage and jealousy, fights Jean and slashes the portrait. Jean thinks he has killed him and escapes hurriedly from the city. He joins the Foreign Legion at Sidi-Bel-Abbes where criminals are given refuge for the price of five years service. When later he learns that the baron is alive and well he escapes successfully from the legion and after many tribulations finally rejoins his loved one. The rest of the story tells of their continued flight and the tragedy of their end.

The lyric mood is captured and held throughout the novel. The emotional beauty of the story, as well as of the physical beauty of the environment, inspire the author to continuous poetic expression. The freshness of the images and the 'impid'ty of the style appear natural and effortless. Now and again there is a slight naïveté in the language that suggests the intentional use of a slight foreign idiom. The scenic descriptions are especially effective, particularly those of the more exotic settings. In many of the descriptions of the desert the reader feels almost tactually the breath of the hot desolate wastes or the iciness of the windless nights. "The biting cold before dawn made the stars furiously alive, and then in the east away beyond Saida and the Ouled Nail mountains came the light that lifted the sky above a cloud, diaphanous, gold-tinted, like a ghostly bird from Paradise," the author writes. Or ". . . the caravan . . . owing to the undulating movements of the air above the sunwarmed earth, seemed wading through shallows of crystal clear waving water." And again, "Beyond here is a stretch of sand projecting from the south like the dry tongue of a man who has died from thirst."

Tubular Chimes Ordered for 1933 World's Fair

The Century of Progress exposition announced yesterday that it has accepted a gift of a carillon from J. C. Deagan, manufacturer of chimes, for installation in the tower of the Hall of Science at the World's Fair. Mr. Deagan's company already has cast the first of the twenty-five tubular bells in the set, which will range from six to thirteen and a half feet in length and will weigh 15,000 pounds altogether. They will be installed in time to ring at the dedication of the hall in June, during the Republican national convention.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

ROME, Jan. 10.—Another masterpiece of ancient sculture has been found during the excavations of the Roman baths at Porto Danzio, on the seaside about forty miles south of Rome.

The central figure in the group is Hercules, represented with a short beard and curly hair and almost nude. Recumbent, he has an arm raised, in defense against the onslaught of a charging horse which is about to trample him underfoot. The right hand she brandishes a long thonged not known if it held a weapon.

On the back of the horse is a female figure, whose thin draperies reveal her perfection. Over her shoulders she wears a lion skin, held in front by a clasp. In her right hand she brandishes a long thronged whip, such as those used in ancient Roman times for castigating slaves.

[One of the twelve Labors of Hercules was the obtaining of the girdle of Hippolyte, queen of the Amazons, and this sculpture might represent an incident in that struggle.]

The horse also is well modeled, being a splendid, muscular animal. The lower part of its forelegs is missing. The find is regarded as of outstanding importance, from both the archaeological and the artistic viewpoints.

Porto Danzio, the site of the sumptuous villas of the Emperor Nero and Maecenas, the patron of Horace and Vergil, already is renowned for its archaeological finds. It is there that there were discovered such famous statues as the girl of Anzio, now in the Diocletian museum in Rome; the dying Gladiator, now in the Capitol museum, and the Apollo of Belvedere, one of the most precious statues in the Vatican museum.

Good morning!

Enters the first of the year's worst pictures!

"Cock of the Air" is lavishly boxed much-ado-about-nothing. The story's dumb, the co-stars—badly miscast—are dumb. Lines and situations are the last word in fatuous absurdity. Where the film aims at smart and humorous sophistication it succeeds only in being utterly ridiculous. But as far as costumes, staging, and photography go, it is a pretty thing to see.

The story's locale is overseas at the time of the world war—though just try and find anything save a few uniforms that even faintly suggests bloodshed and heartache! The heroine is a French actress, so devastating to the morale of fighting men that she is requested to leave Paris for Italy by representatives of all the allied governments—and decorated for so doing.

In exile she meets an American ace, who is as fatal to femmes as the lady is to men. The nutty romance of the two consumes the remainder of the picture's footage.

You can see where Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald—cleverly directed—could put over the asinine "Cock of the Air." But Miss Dove and Mr. Morris—both so capable in rôles that suit them—haven't the faintest idea of what to do with the ones they drew this trip and they act like a pair of prize geese.

Matt Moore as the hero's orderly gives the best performance and hands you a few laughs—in the right places. I WILL say you titter plenty when you're not in the least supposed to. Which means, perhaps, that the movie's so bad that it's good.

"X MARKS THE SPOT."

Directed by Eric C. Kenton.
Presented at the Roosevelt theater.

THE CAST.

George Howe, editor .....Lew Cody

Gloria.....Helen Parrish [as child]
Gloria .....Joyce Coad [7 years later]

Ever hear of a Broadway columnist—or any columnist—being accused of murder? Well, in "X Marks the Spot" one is.

This melodrama intimately concerns itself with the world of tabloid. The columnist is accused of murdering a show girl who has announced her intention of suing the Gazette because of certain writings by Ted Lloyd whose spicy tittle-tattle spells circulation for his paper.

As a result of his own Sherlockings about, Ted discovers the murderer. For a time he shields him on account of—never mind! Later, well, never mind that either, but the finale though hectic to the last degree, DOES manage to be something new in endings.

You will find Wallace Ford a debonair and likable hero—looking a lot like a certain well known New York daily column perpetrator, and you will be surprised at the ease with which Lew Cody fits a twelve minute egg editor's shoes. Sally Blane—looking practically exactly like her sister, Loretta Young—is charming as Editor Howe's secretary. Fred Kohler does wrong in good old—bad, old, rather . . . Big House fashion. Other rôles are capably handled. Lines are quite clever and draw a lot of laughs. Direction's to the good.

If you're tired of newspaper-gangster movies, why, maybe, "X Marks the Spot" won't sit well with you. If not, you'll possibly get considerable kick out of it, because of that rare new angle—a columnist accused of murder. For "The pen is mightier than the sword," which is the reason that columnists never stoop to bloodshed.

See you tomorrow!

Will Give Concert Today.

The Lake View Musical society will hold its third concert of the season this afternoon in the Blackstone hotel ballroom.

THE STAGE

THE next play to be offered by the Dramatic League of Chicago will be "Fata Morgana," a comedy from the Hungarian of Ernest Vadja which was staged by the Theater Guild four or five years ago and was recently revived in New York. If the title puzzles you, there are two things to do—look up the phrase in an unabridged dictionary, or use "mirage" as a substitute.

The current revival has Douglass Montgomery, the young actor who was extremely effective in "Many a Slip" with Sylvia Field as its star. Others in the cast are Ara Gerald, William Ingersoll, Grace Van Auker, Lillian Savin, James Jolley, Claire Grenville, Edward Butler, Antoinette Rochte, Doris Lauray, Margaret Mullen, Kemble Knight, Dorothy Slaytor, Richard Spencer, and Richard Temple.

Billy Bryant's show boat company will begin a New York engagement at the John Golden theater Jan. 25, offering "Ten Nights in a Barroom." But this will not be Broadway's first experience with the water front school of acting. The historians of the street have unearthed the fact that three years ago another show boat company, title forgotten, tried its luck at the Belmont theater with "The Parson's Bride."

June Walker, who played the prairie belle in "Green Grow the Lilacs," and Geoffrey Kerr, her husband, will have the leading rôles in "Collision," a play that will go into rehearsal in New York this week. The piece comes from the German of Rudolph Lothar and Erno Serbesi, and has been adapted by John Anderson, dramatic critic of the New York Evening Post. Miss Walker and Mr. Kerr have not acted together since they appeared under David Belasco's management in "The Bachelor Father."

Mary Servoss has been added to the Chicago company of "Counselor at Law," which will begin an engagement at the Selwyn theater Feb. 7. She will have the rôle acted by Louise Prussing in New York. Miss Servoss' last appearances here were in Elmer Rice's Pulitzer Prize play, "Street Scene."

A bulletin from the Blackstone theater says that no definite date has been fixed for the Chicago première of Eugene O'Neill's "Mourning Becomes Electra." It adds that the bookings for the play's tour indicate an opening here either on Feb. 15 or Feb. 22. The Guild is sponsoring the engagement of Rachel Crother's "As Husbands Go," at the Blackstone, starting next Monday night.

The company that Walter Hampden has assembled for a cross country tour in "Cyrano de Bergerac," starting Jan. 30, includes Whitford Kane, Robert Hudson, Wilfred Jessop, W. Messenger Bellis, C. Norman Hammond, P. J. Kelly, William Sauter, John D. Seymour, Esther Mitchell, Mabel Moore and Katherine Warren. Mr. Hampden will reach Chicago late in the spring. C. C.

This Is Time of Moral Courage, Dr. Hough Declares

"I can face calamity with God, but I wouldn't know how to face prosperity without him," Dr. Lynn Harold Hough told the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall last night. He added the present is no time for moral cowards.

Dr. Hough, the predecessor of Dr. Walter Dill Scott as president of Northwestern university is on the faculty of Drew seminary, Madison, N. J.

"That we are in a changing world," Dr. Hough said, "is no new thought. It has been said by every Adam to every Eve since the first couple left the garden of Eden.

"I am afraid the majority of us have lost more than money these past few years; the majority of us seem to have lost our vision. It is now a question of moral bravery or moral cowardice. The hero today is the man who believes in the best thing that can be thought about the universe, and stick to his task because of an inner certainty of God. He will not be affected by the changes in economic value or the antics of the stock ticker."

BEG YOUR PARDON!

Ernest B. Watson, owner of a barber shop at 634 Davis street, Evanston, where a stench bomb was thrown Saturday, denied yesterday that he had any part in the movement to cut prices of haircuts in the suburb, as was stated yesterday in THE TRIBUNE.

"A Night in Monte Carlo," to be staged at the Steuben club by members of the David M. Grodsky aid, will be next Sunday evening, not Saturday, as was announced in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE.

Three Generations of Deerings Will Share in Library Ceremony

Three generations of the Deering family will take part in the cornerstone laying ceremonies for the new Charles Deering library on the Evanston campus of Northwestern university tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Roger McCormick, grandson of the late Charles Deering and great grandson of William Deering, who was president of the board of trustees of the university for many years, will lay the cornerstone, assisted by his mother, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, and his grandmother, Mrs. Charles Deering. Brief talks will be made by John H. Hardin, chairman of the Evanston campus committee of the board of trustees, and President Walter Dill Scott.

Funds for the new library, which will cost approximately $1,250,000, were given by members of the family of Charles Deering. The building will occupy a central position on the campus and will constitute the first unit in the plans for the development of the Evanston campus calling for an expenditure of 100 million dollars in the next fifty years.

EPISCOPAL BISHOP REPLIES TO POPE ON CHRISTIAN UNITY

New York, Jan. 10.—(AP)—The presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church, the Rt. Rev. James De Wolf Perry, in a sermon at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine today, answered the present encyclical of Pope Pius on christian unity.

"It is a sincere and gracious appeal, addressed as it is to the "separated brethren," the bishop said, "and should have respect and reply from those to whom it most concerns.

"The whole christian world does indeed look with longing for the return to one fold, but it believes that this can be realized only through the acknowledgement of Jesus Christ as the sole head of the church, the shepherd and bishop of the souls of men."

Bishop Perry quoted St. Jerome as writing in the fourth century:

"The custom of the Roman church has no more authority than that of any other. The episcopate at Rome has no more authority essentially than any other episcopate.

"A seat of government," Bishop Perry declared, "which has been reared for the exercise of ecclesiastical power by one part of the church, involving breach of union with the other parts, and fortifying its authority with the doctrine of infallibility, can never be accepted as the center of reunion.

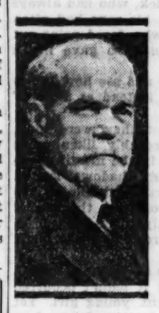
"I know that the desire for reunion is no less ardently felt by Protestants than it is by Catholics. Nevertheless, with them also the cause of pure religion has first consideration.

Farm College Leaders Plan Talks on Future

To Hold Meetings at Purdue and Illinois.

BY PAUL POTTER.

A renewed interest in modern methods of effecting economies in production and marketing, brought about with declining commodity prices the last two years, is expected to bring more than ten thousand farmers to the annual farm and home programs of Purdue university at Lafayette, Ind., and the University of Illinois at Urbana this week. The "short courses" of the two agricultural schools open this morning and continue until Friday.



EUGENE DAVENPORT.

Eugene Davenport, first dean of the Illinois college of agriculture is expected to sound the keynote of present and future agricultural conditions in his address today. Dr. Davenport is dean emeritus of the college and returns from retirement on his farm at Woodland, Mich., to speak on "What Shall We Do with the Next Cycle?"

Others on the Urbana program this week include Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture; Dr. F. D. Farrell, president of Kansas State college; Dr. Caroline B. Hedger, Elizabeth McCormick Memorial, Chicago; G. F. Warren, noted agricultural economist of Cornell university, and others. Courses of instruction in 35 farm subjects will be offered. It is the 34th consecutive annual farmers' week of the school.

Among the Illinois farmers' organizations also to meet in Urbana this week are the State Federation of Home Bureaus, State Crop Improvement association, state branch of American Society of Farm Managers, State Jersey Cattle club and Illinois Brown Swiss Cattle Breeders' association. Special railroad fares are in effect from all parts of the state, according to Dean H. W. Mumford, in charge.

At Purdue, the opening sessions today will be addressed by President E. C. Elliott and Dean J. H. Skinner of the agricultural school. The annual agricultural conference at Purdue will not only offer instructional courses on production, marketing, rural leadership and home economics, but sixteen state-wide associations of farmers will hold annual meetings there this week.

In addition to faculty speakers, the Purdue conference will be addressed by Dr. Andrew Boss, University of Minnesota; A. P. Yerkes, agricultural engineer of Chicago; Dr. C. J. Willard of Ohio State university; Charles L. Hill, commissioner of agriculture, Madison, Wis.; Wayne Dinsmore, Horse Association of America, and others. Many successful Hoosier farmers are also accorded places in the five day program.

A feature of the Indiana farm conference Thursday is to be the awarding of certificates to a group of Indiana farmers for distinguished services to agriculture and to their communities.

City's Cultural Sources Fight Against Slump

Museums Protect Budgets, Keep Up Standards.

Despite a shrinkage in investment values and the scarcity of public funds, Chicago's cultural institutions are operating up to standard, a survey has revealed. The curtailment made necessary by prevailing financial conditions is manifest in the lessening of expansion and growth which the art centers would normally enjoy.

Conditions are felt most keenly at the Chicago Public library, an institution supported solely by taxation. The staff has been reduced, salaries cut, and the pay roll is a month behind, according to N. R. Levin, assistant librarian.

Mr. Levin said that the library has been unable to buy new books since last June and subscriptions to foreign periodicals and publications have been suspended indefinitely. The board of directors will hold its meeting today to discuss budgetary matters and to try to untangle the library from the financial difficulties which have beset the local government.

Although the Art Institute of Chicago has suffered from the depression, there will be no closing of doors and no reduction in salaries, Robert B. Harshe, the director, asserted. The institute derives its income partly from endowment and partly from taxes. The tax money has dwindled because heretofore it had been shared by the institute and the Field Museum of Natural History, but now the two institutions must also share with the Shedd aquarium. The Art institute spent $50,000 less than normal during 1931.

Mr. Harshe said that the curtailment was accomplished by not filling vacancies that occurred on the staff. The board of trustees is expected to complete its financial statement on Jan. 21.

The Field museum revealed that some of the expeditions to distant lands had to be abandoned or shortened because of the lack of funds, but Stephen C. Simms, director, says there will be no reduction at home. "We feel the depression the same as any corporation, institution, or individual," said Mr. Simms, "but the doors will not be closed, and the field museum will continue to function normally."

At the John Crerar library, J. Christian Bay, the director, said that the staff was making "a dollar go as far as it will." Any curtailment, Mr. Bay asserted, will be made in that part of the library that is little used by the public. This library is supported entirely on endowment. "We grow carefully," asserted Mr. Bay, "and stay within our income."

George B. Utley, librarian at the Newberry library, said that the institution has thus far been untouched by the depression. He announced that book purchases and subscriptions were continuing along normal lines. At the Chicago Academy of Sciences, Director Alfred M. Bailey reported pleasant financial conditions because of fortunate investments by the trustees. The academy, supported by endowment, has a small staff and much of the work is voluntary.

The Chicago Historical Society is staying close to the budget and operating on "an irreducible minimum," according to L. Hubbard Shattuck, the director. The library and museum of the society are supported entirely by endowment and memberships.

Sculptor Offers Test for Old Masters as Disclosing Fakes

New York, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Art is reduced to geometry by the recovery of the long lost gnomon of the old masters, Julian Bowes, sculptor, told a group of artists tonight.

"No greater scientific test can be applied to 'dubious' old masters than the gnomon," Bowes said, "for it recovers the very symmetry used by the artist. If the canvas is a forgery, a few gnomic geometric processes will unmistakably disclose it as such."

Aside from its use as a test of old paintings, Bowes said the gnomon was a "tool of organization in the hands of the modern artist which bids fair to open up a realm of design hitherto unknown to our times."

Bowes explained the gnomon as being composed of a major and minor square with common diagonal, and flanked by rectangles of the "whirling square." When applied to a canvas, he said, it "spots" every focal point and establishes the relationship of the figures.

LAST YEAR'S WIFE

By ALICE M. WILLIAMSON

SYNOPSIS.

Lorne Carlton and Dick Farrow, popular moving picture stars of Hollywood, sail for Europe on a delayed honeymoon after a year's happy marriage. Lorne is sad about leaving, as she has an undefinable presentiment of trouble, but Dick is anxious for the adventure. Dick's parents are famous on the stage. Lorne, who fought her way through poverty to the heights, feels that she is not approved by the elder Farrows. Dolores, the Duchess of Crowninshield, a friend of Dick's parents, has invited the young couple to be her guests in London. She is divorced from the duke, but is one of England's most important hostesses. From the first moment of their meeting Dick is a willing captive of the beautiful and charming duchess.

INSTALLMENT VII.

A MAN EATER.

By and by Dolores led them to the limousine. The dark blue chauffeur and footman touched their smart caps like sedate robots, and the three got into the car. It was almost as luxurious a car as the most extablished star of Hollywood could boast ("boast" in every sense of the word) but not quite so wondrous in each detail.

"Sit at my right," Dolores said to Lorne, and sank down beside her with wafts of some exquisite new perfume. The two young women were so slim that there would have been plenty of room in the same wide seat for Dick. But the duchess placed him opposite, and Lorne knew why: so that he could gaze and drink his fill of her white and golden beauty, and so that now and then she could flash a responsive glance straight into his eyes.

How sweet Dolores was, how almost cloyingly sweet! She put out her small hand and clasped Lorne's, which she continued to hold while she talked to both, beginning to tell them this and that about the scenery, and forgetting to finish her sentences, as she and Dick exchanged electricity.

Once in awhile Dick detached his mind for a second from the absorbing new interest, flinging a "sop to Cerberus" in the shape of an affectionate smile for his wife. Lorne had never heard of Cerberus, yet at this moment she was in Hades. And she understood the motive of these kind smiles much better than Dick understood it himself. She realized, in fact, that he didn't understand anything at all about what had happened to him. He hadn't a worry in the world, and he was violently happy.

This blissful fatuity on the part of Dick made Lorne want to scream as they drove on, being charging to each other, all three. It was so strange and dreadful that Dick should be happy while she suffered; Dick, who had always resented the necessity of any pain for her; Dick, who in his rage had often threatened to "go gunning" after any beast of a critic who dared point out a fault in her accent or her features, and through doing so gave her a moment of sadness.

When the girl could not endure to look across the car and see how Dick's eyes, blind to her, focused on the duchess, she glanced instead at Dolores' face in the chauffeur's mirror.

Dolores' eyes were not so immense as Lorne's, but they were long, rather than wide open, under lids which Dick was probably likening to magnolia petals. They slanted down at the outer corners in the most appealing (and, thought Lorne, deceitful) way, with spreading, shadowy lashes, which reminded you of Greta Garbo's on the screen. Lorne sat defining the effect of the duchess. The extraordinary impression of romance, the special allure which even Hollywood hadn't equaled, lay mostly, she decided, in that downward slant of the long, dark eyes, and the spread of those black lashes.

She had known that the duchess of Crowninshield was still young, though perhaps not so young as Margaret Farrow asserted, but it hadn't occurred to her that the semi-royal lady would look like an innocent young girl. Yet that was just what she did look like. She looked younger than Lorne herself. Lorne made a mental note to find the woman in Burke or Debrett, or any of those huge tomes which she had seen in studio research libraries far, far away, in little Hollywood. That was one boring thing for the great ones of the world! They couldn't conceal their age from those who took the trouble to turn the pages of these merciless volumes. Lorne hoped that the creature was 30 at least, far too old for Dick, and disillusioning if the wretched boy hadn't already gone too far to be disillusioned. There was a stage beyond, and he looked as if he had reached it. If he had, the one advantage Lorne possessed over Dolores—a few years of youth—wouldn't help her.

The duchess said that she always went to see their films, and took her friends. Every one was so excited because Lorne Carlton and Dick Farrow were to be her visitors. Heaps of things had been planned for them. Dolores had an amusing flow of very modern slang, which sounded quaintly piquant coming from those heart-shaped Spanish lips which Dick watched as if mentally he kissed them. She called them both "darling!" (poor old word, once so sweet, now battered out of all value). When she bestowed it on Dick she looked at him from under her eyelashes, and Lorne was sure that the Crowninshield divorce had been all, all Dolores' fault. The duke had accepted the blame through chivalry, or because he had seen through the female and wanted to get rid of her at any cost.

Dolores asked questions about Hollywood. Should she like it? Would people there be nice to her? Maybe some day she'd run out to California, if Lorne and Dick would invite her. Meanwhile, she would try to give them such a good time in London that they'd put off their sailing. O! but she had arranged some ra-ther adorable parties for them! And certain royalties were looking forward to meeting them both. There was nothing on for tonight, however. Dolores had said to herself, she confessed, "Little Mrs. Dick may have been air sick! Anyhow, she'll be tired and want a beauty sleep. Life will begin tomorrow!"

Lorne answered, yes! she was a tiny bit tired. She might have added that she was a little more than tired. She was dead. Quite dead. After this she would be going about like a galvanized corpse. Funny how you could smile and behave normally when you were a corpse. Nothing so very different about you physically, save that your heart seemed to have slowed down because it weighed more than hearts were supposed to weigh. And her lips were extraordinarily dry.

"Does this mean that I've given up?" she asked herself. "No! I can't do that. I'm not a prize turnip nor an early Victorian lady who sits down and slumps when she's disappointed in love."

The girl tried to rouse her mentality to fighting pitch because, of course, if the worst came to the worst she would fight for Dick. She would go to the mat with this man eater! This fierce resolution warmed Lorne back to life for an instant. Then, as Dick grew more blind to her, and more deaf, she subsided into apathy again. Dick would be disgusted with her if she showed her claws to the duchess of Crowninshield. When a man went away in spirit from one woman to another, he wanted to stay away. She had always let him have what he wanted . . . Well, and then—what?

"I'll wait and see," Lorne resolved. "This is going to be a test of character," she thought. And she didn't add, "of my charm, too"; though never before in her experience had she seen that charm flicker out in the blaze of another woman's appeal. She'd always held her own without conscious effort when "S. A." was being used on any male. But she had seen other girls' S. A. overpowered by that of their rivals, and their conduct in the situation was a warning. Robbed of their lovers or husbands, they had been contemptible, hardly worth pitying. They had been spiteful; they'd indulged in hysterics; they had been undignified, catty, and vulgar in fifty-seven varieties of ways. They had struggled to turn the tables on their erring men and had made disgusting scandals; or, more shameful than all, they had gone about wailing and whimpering to their friends. Things in general had been a mess when charm had failed.

But Lorne Carlton sat there in the terrible duchess' beautiful motor car and made up her mind that she would stand on her intelligence, if she possessed any of the kind needed—not upon a charm which, alas! couldn't compete with Dolores. Things should not, in any case, be a mess!

The duchess might be—indeed was—a very great lady, whose ladyhood was so mixed with cathood as to be a stronger combination than any Lorne had met before. She, herself, was not a lady—at least, she hadn't been born one—but her purpose had, she hoped, moulded her into something like a gentlewoman. Now, when she said "wait and see," she meant that the waiting would show what was due to happen between a lady made so by virtue of blue blood, and a lady built up synthetically by a purpose.

It was a long drive—or so it seemed—from Croydon to Queen Anne's square; but, as it drew to an end, Lorne was not sure that she hadn't been able to profit by it.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Chance to Aid Ex-Service Man.

"I am a student taking a course which requires several pieces of electro-therapeutic apparatus which I am unable to purchase. I am a disabled veteran with a family to support, and I am fighting awfully hard to get ahead but will need some aid if I am to win out. I am certain some practitioner, hospital or layman has some useful but discarded pieces, such as ultra violet ray lamp, high frequency, gulvanic, vibration outfits, etc., which are no longer being used. I would appreciate a baking cabinet, too.

"C. G."

If you can provide any of the articles this disabled veteran needs for his practice, you will be helping him attain his goal. Being able to support himself and his family again will make him extremely happy.

Long Bob No Longer Covers the Neck, Say Experts in Coiffures

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

One thing you can write down in your 1932 copybook is that the long bob is off the neck. 'Taint any more! If you have a neck, you show it from the end of the natural hair line right down to the dress collar; further, if you wear an evening frock.

Anyway, there are no flowing locks cluttering that finely molded, gently curved head support in the back. In fact, the hair dressing is strictly on the up and up. More properly speaking, on the up and over, there being a swirl-trend to all the latest back hair treatment.

I venture the above on the authority of the Coiffure guild, a representative body of our best American hair style designers. They put on a coiffure style show, recently at one of our swankiest hotels. There paraded some twenty girls, each wearing a coiffure representing the best design from as many hairdressers.

These shows are getting more and more interesting from the standpoint of coupling frock and foiffure, particularly. On this occasion formal clothes only were shown, so the coiffures necessarily were dressy. I will say this for the 1932 season. You're going to have to skip work a half hour earlier in order to get the necesary dressedupedness for the evening. Those tight little, flat little curl arrangements ranging from the peak at the end of the hair line in back on up midway to the crown jes' aren't something you can do with your own trusty curling iron, or with a hurry-up appointment with your hairdresser.

But, at least, the new styles in headdress permit you a wide scale of experimenting. You can be sure that there is a style for you. You do not have to look like exact copies of a couple of other women.

With the small,flattish tendrils that may garland your brow, your temple, or your cheek, you can work out a bit of distinction on your own. The Spanish beauty in the show wore her ears exposed and one fairly good sized tendril turned up cheekbone way. A whole tier of flat little dandelion twists decorated the half of one brow, the line being carried down to a point in front of the ear tip.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

TEDDY: IN CERTAIN OF THE hair colorings, there is a definite chemical dye content which affects some skins just as you describe. That's why better hair specialists always test the effect of the dye on the skin before applying it to the hair.

PATRICIA: I SAW IN AN ARTICle recently that one of the actresses shaped her finger tips by wearing thimbles that fitted snugly. You can work the flesh you complain about into a more tapering shape by pressing and shaping frequently during the day.

"Weedy" Says Friends Misunderstand Her When She Helps Boy

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"What," asks Weedy, "is a greater misery than a false opinion of one's kindness?"

"Weedy," it seems, met a young man five years her junior. An old family friend, he was. She ran into him when he was in a bad hole. He had been in a serious automobile accident. Then, his job slipped out from under him. She lent him money for necessities.

The incident created gossip of an unsavory character. One girl friend snubbed here; another chided her over the phone for her folly. So, "Weedy" is now enjoying the dumps. Asking, what is the meaning of a friend? And what is worse than to have one's motive misunderstood?.

We say advisedly that "Weedy" is enjoying the dumps. One enjoys them or one would not entertain them, knowing oneself that the deed and the motive had nothing wrong in them.

Too, the question arises, who told of the money lending? Did the young man? Or, did Weedy? If she told—then, the deed was not so worthy. There are folk who give because they like to talk about it. They are not our best humanitarians, you understand. Their motives are misconstrued as they have every right to be.

But all of this talk of what people say is evidence of an unoccupied mind, self-centered, egotistic mind. It's bad stuff to picture yourself to any one as a put-upon person, one whose kindness has been taken advantage of. It is a sorry picture and it never does the thing hoped for.

It does not earn sympathy. It does not make people attach to you. It makes them just a bit leery of association with you. The person who sees her motives misconstrued is usually a suspicious person about the motives of others. That's why such are avoided.

Lending money under the circumstances described is no offense. Who wouldn't help an old acquaintance out of a difficulty of the sort, if one had money?

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Wants to Forget Him.

"Dear Miss Blake: My boy friend says he loves me, but for certain reasons I want to forget him.

"MARY."

Your interest in some one else should be able to take care of your problem.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

When the telephone rang the other night my mother answered it. Although I was quite a distance away I could hear the person at the other end of the line talking, and as I was expecting a call from my girl friend who usually talks loudly, I hurried to the phone. Not giving my mother a chance to say a word to me I yelled, "Calm yourself! You were talking so loud I could hear you out in the kitchen. What's the matter with you, anyway?"

And it was the wrong number!

R. M. B.

Having purchased a new gray felt hat for my husband, I showed it to a married couple who had dropped in for an evening of bridge. Along with the new hat I had brought another gray felt hat which hung on the hall rack. Thinking I had my husband's old hat, I said, "Of course, this old hat is good enough for every day—although it needs cleaning."

Imagine my great embarrassment when our guest spoke aloud with laughter, "Why, that's my hat."

Society Girls Will Put On Radio Serial

THERE'S nothing particularly surprising about a society woman taking a job these days, but if it's a radio job she's taking it's something to talk about. Not many of the versatile young women who manage a business and social life so effectively have invaded the radio field. To be sure, a number of them have "taken the air" to make pleas for this or that charity and a few of them sing, but in most cases those broadcasts are made more for pleasure than for profit.

All of which lends interest to the fact that two prominent young women are getting ready right now to put an honest to goodness professional skit on the air. Mrs. Alexander Kirk and Miss Sarah Hinde will be heard over a Chicago station at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening in the opening presentation of a serial entitled "Barbara and Betty," to be continued every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday evenings thereafter.

Lest this sounds like a simple job, be advised that Mrs. Kirk and Miss Hinde are writing the script themselves, which involves a study of things peculiar to radio technique and which will keep them busy getting up three installments a week.

As for the acting end of it, they both have had training which should be valuable to them. Miss Hinde was a member of the Goodman Players for several years and Mrs. Kirk "served her time" in a variety of rôles for the Junior league children's theater in the days when she was Clara Hollis.

Speaking of radio, we've heard many admiring comments on Mrs. John Elliott Jenkins' [Alexandra Carlisle] dramatic recitation of "If" over the air the other day as part of a program in which she made a plea for the United Charities collection of clothes.

Judging from the list of reservations, the Palmer house ballroom will be packed with people who want to hear Sir Norman Angell tell about "The Capitalist Collapse and Our Educational Values" tomorrow at the joint luncheon of the Chicago Council of Foreign Relations and the English Speaking union. Among those who will be present are Mrs. James C. Clow, Mrs. Harry B. Clow, Mr. and Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dauchy, Charles L. Strobel, Ernest Ballard, Graham Aldis, Stuart H. Otis, Mrs. Ralph Winston, Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw, Mrs. William S. Ennis, Mrs. Tracy Drake, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Granger.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Robert Hall McCormick, Mrs. William B. Greenlee, Mrs. Harry Fuller, and Mrs. Mitchell Follansbee have made reservations for tables.

Mr. and Mrs. W. David Owen and Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Skinner were among the Chicago guests at the wedding of Miss Ellen Hammond Skae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Askin Skae, to James Joseph Phelan Jr. of New York, formerly of Chicago, which was solemnized on Saturday morning at the Church of St. Vincent De Paul in Pontiac, Mich., with Bishop Michael J. Gallagher of Detroit officiating. The bride and groom are to travel in Europe and North Africa on their honeymoon.

Twelfth Night Ball Voted Grand Party.

Now that the ball is over and the headaches [we hope] are gone, there's lots of teacup chatter about the Twelfth Night whoopee party which made the staid old Germania club look like a madhouse inhabited by happy lunatics. Cyrus McCormick, who has been one of the moving spirits of the Twelfth Night balls for several years, wasn't present at the Germania on Friday, because he protested so vigorously against holding the affair this year when the Twelve Knights met for preliminary arrangements. He and Mrs. McCormick, however, gave a cocktail party for a group of people who went on later to the ball. Several wives, also, decided not to attend the ball this year, and got together for a dove party in Lake Forest while their husbands frolicked at the Germania. The rule that an invitation ignored means the recipient will never get another bid to the ball still holds good.

Despite the fact that everybody is working his head off to help local charities through the Joint Emergency Relief fund, an interested group of Chicagoans is finding time to answer the romantic and touching appeal of the Frontier Nursing Service. The Chicago committee of the service is to meet on Wednesday, Jan. 20, at the residence of Mrs. Charles Wesley Dempster at 209 Lake Shore drive.

Mrs. Mary Breckenridge, who still is convalescing from her accident of a few weeks, is unable to come to Chicago for the meeting, so Dr. C. E. A. Winslow of Yale will be present to tell of the work being done in the Kentucky mountains and Marvin Hughitt Frost will show some recent movies. Invitations to the meeting state that there will be no appeal for funds.

Games for Jobless, Homeless Men Are Latest Relief Plan

Plans for relieving the boredom and despair of "nothing to do" among the 13,000 homeless single men being cared for in the shelters operated by the Joint Emergency Relief fund were announced yesterday. The program calls for recreation and manual occupations to while away the dreary hours.

Maj. W. C. Bechtold, executive secretary of the committee on recreation, announced the following program of activities for the homeless:

1. Individual contest games, such as checkers, cards, chess, box hockey, shuffleboard, horseshoes and punching bag.
2. Intershelter contests.
3. Organized games such as baseball, volley ball, basketball, boxing and wrestling.
6. Discovery and development of talent in music and the drama.
7. Development of manual activities, such as the making of toys for poor children.
8. Mass entertainment of the men by community talent, through the cooperation of the Adult Educational council.

Other things asked for are athletic equipment, games, puzzles, quoits, etc.

"Like all men they must have something to do to keep them from brooding and losing their grip in face of a situation that appears desperately black to them now," Maj. Bechtold said.

Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, executive secretary of the Chicago Heart association, yesterday said the city's relief problem was complicated by 10,000 cases of heart disease among its social dependents. From now until St. Valentine's day the association's annual sale of hearts will be conducted.

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 10.—The most unexpectedly successful movie films turned out during the last two months have been two action pictures showing complete college football games, the first game that between Southern California and Notre Dame at South Bend, netting $50,000 profit each for three backers as well as an unknown "take" of 20 per cent to go to the Knute Rockne memorial fund.

The second film, showing Southern California winning from Tulane at Pasadena on New Year's day, opened a highly successful run here three days ago, and may approach the sensational money earning results from the Notre Dame picture.

Photographing the Trojan game at South Bend was a big gamble for the three partners—Sam Wood, former director for Harold Lloyd and Mary Pickford; Harry Beaumont, another movie director, and Si Masters, Los Angeles manager of prize fight arenas. Had Notre Dame walloped Southern California in 1931 as it did in the 1930 game there might have been no profit at all.

But Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer was glad to sign a contract to release the five reel film, the way it did turn out, and the picture is still bringing in a golden flow for the three partners, the Rockne fund, and the M.-G.-M. corporation.

Mary Nolan, who is awaiting the outcome of four or five lawsuits here, has broken her contract to appear in four films for M. H. Hoffman, an independent producer. She announced she was dissatisfied with the stories.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

We are all taught to believe that the opportunist never goes very far and only the man with a well ordered plan of life succeeds.

Contract bridge, however, is a game—at least it should be considered as a game and should not be taken too seriously. Bridge is played for fun and consequently the opportunist does quite well at contract.

In yesterday's play-a-problem there was one very neat play by West, who played the hand. I am going to give you the bidding and play as it actually occurred and see if you can spot the one play West made that probably would have been missed by the average player. After we have gone over the bidding and play I will discuss this stroke of brilliance. This was the hand:

WEST (Dealer)
♠—Q,8

EAST
♠—K,J,5,2
♦—K,Q,4

SOUTH
♥—K,10,9
♦—J,10,9,8,7
♣—K,6

West dealt and bid a no-trump. North passed and East raised the bid to two no-trumps, which South passed. West now bid three no-trumps.

West held a no-trump count of 18. This would have allowed a bid of two if the spade suit had been stopped. With East's raise, West is safe in placing his partner with a spade stopper since the combined hands must count at least 27. As a matter of fact, the actual count of the two hands is 29.

North opened the ♠ 3, dummy played the 2, South the 9, and West the Q. West now led the ♦ 3, which East took with the Q. Dummy then led back the ♣ 5, which West took with the Q. South playing the 6. West then led the ♣ A, dropping South's K. West followed by leading the ♣ 2, which dummy took with the J. Dummy then returned the ♥ 3, which West took with the ♥ Q and led the good ♣ 4 and ♣ 3. To the ninth trick West led the ♠ 8, which is captured by South's ♠ A, dummy having played the ♠ J. South now returned the ♠ 7, which dummy took with the K. Dummy next led the ♦ 4, which West captured with the A, leading back the ♦ 5, which dummy took with the K. To the last trick dummy led the ♥ J, which was taken by West with the ♥ A, making his game and three extra tricks.

West's play at trick three made it possible to make six odd. With his club holding it would have been absurd to lead the ♣ J, as such a lead would be sure to set up one club for the adversaries regardless of where the K might lie. If West (or opportunity) should find the K and one on his right, then five club tricks can be made, but should he lead the J only four are possible and perhaps he will only make three.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S. 3, H. K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Schools Educate Parents as Well as Small Children

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Some human and rather amusing notes came in, not long ago, in connection with the education of parents. Of course, you know that all sorts of ways are being contrived to help parents—by our government, by universities, and so on. Day nurseries and nursery schools make fine laboratories for parents to visit. And infant welfare stations, too.

Classes are arranged for fathers and mothers, and they have been most popular among parents and effective, too, in cities like Detroit, Cincinnati, Cleveland, St. Paul and Minneapolis.

There are classes for mothers in the pension departments of juvenile courts, and for the "boarding mothers" of problem children. At the Merrill-Palmer school in Detroit fathers as well as mothers are required to spend a morning in school, seeking answers to a list of questions given them by the principal. How would you like that game?

The father of a much over-directed little boy said, after he had observed the way in which twenty-two small children worked and played together, conforming to requirements when necessary and yet receiving few direct commands: 'I should have done this before."

At this school there are frequent suppers and social gatherings for fathers and mothers, followed by a short talk on some point in child care and training. There are also group discussion meetings, but for one in the daytime attended by mothers there are always two in the evening for both fathers and mothers. This school has been one of the most insistent ones in pointing out that the child has "parents," not just "the parent" as so often occurs in print [That's an idea I wish would spread.].

"I have learned: 1. To stand back and 'watch the parade go by with myself in it.' I have found that the children's behavior usually depends on my own. 2. To substitute helpful correction for punishment. I find that the children do not resent it as they do punishment. 3. To approve desirable behavior, instead of nagging about undesirable behavior and, 4. to see the child's viewpoint."

'Parsifal' Fills Opera House; Day's Concerts

BY EDWARD MOORE.

THE Civic Opera house completely sold out for the second performance of "Parsifal" and liberal attendance for three programs of the piano on Michigan boulevard were some of the noticeable events of yesterday afternoon. It would seem to indicate that the music making industry has not yet thrown up its hands.

Vladimir Horowitz was back for his second recital at Orchestra hall, and more of a magician of the keyboard than ever. He did Liszt, the "Funerailles" and the B minor Sonata in the first part of his program to the loudly expressed satisfaction of all. Then, after a brief rest, he began working other varieties of witchcraft. It is hard to say when one has heard anything more utterly charming than his playing of two Chopin Mazurkas, both in the key of C sharp minor, unless possibly it was the second of the two Etudes-Tableaux by Rachmaninoff. And the way he built up Schubert's March Militaire in the Tausig version from a gentle zephyr to a roaring, shouting tornado of sound was something to do a little shouting over on one's own hook.

The Playhouse presented a newcomer, Hortense Monath, an artist whom one would like to hear more of. Her tastes lead her to the moderns of the piano, Alban Berg, Serge Prokofieff, and Ernst Toch. Her ability leads her to play Brahms' Sonata, opus 5, in the most interesting manner I have ever heard it done here. She has a pianist's hands and a pianist's brain and they are both developed to high ability.

Ethel Bartlett and Rae Robertson played music for two pianos at the Studebaker and did it uncommonly well. They excel in intricate, delicate figurations, they are entirely in sympathy with each other and the music they happen to be playing. It was another case of hating to find that time was passing and other events called for visits, for their program was uncommonly entertaining in addition to the exquisite performance they were giving of it.

Among other events of the day were the third song recital by the singing actor, Victor Chenkin, at the Civic theater, with a program containing a number of new works, as well as some of those by which he is best known here, and another item in the chamber music series presented by the Joseffer string quartet at the Cordon club last night.

Food Talk

The recent story of foods fried in deep fat brings to mind an unusual foreign pastry called Fattigmans Bakkise. Translated from the Norwegian to our tongue, it means "Poor Man's Pastry." But wait until you read the recipe and then you will wonder just how many poor men can afford to indulge such a taste!

FATTIGMANS BAKKISE.

Beat the eggs until light; add the sugar to them and beat well again. Add the cream, flour, and crushed cardamom seeds in the order named. Mix the whole into a dough which can be rolled very thin. Take a little wheel cutter and cut in diamond shapes with a slash in the center of each. Fry in deep, hot fat [at the temperature that browns a one inch cube of bread in fifty seconds as the clock ticks] until they are a delicate golden brown. Drain on unglazed paper or a paper towel. When cool, dust each one lightly with powdered sugar and serve.

Fattigmans Bakkise are nice with breakfast coffee, and their flaky lightness and snowy appearance make them most attractive for teas or luncheon parties. However, once your guests have nibbled them, you will find yourself a busy hostess keeping the plate filled.

Another breal or luncheon sweet appropriate nuary service is the raised doughnut. These may be cut with a biscuit cutter for a change, spread with a thin layer of jelly or jam, and then the first section may be covered with a second section which is placed over the jam. One teaspoonful of jelly or jam is sufficient for the filling. Press the edges of the two sections of dough together and let rise a second time before dropping in the deep fat. Serve with or without a sugar dusting. The recipe given below may be made plain or varied as suggested.

2 egg yolks.

Crumble the yeast into a one-half cup of lukewarm milk with one teaspoon of sugar and one-half teaspoon of flour. Set in a warm place to rise. Mix the dry ingredients [sifted flour, salt, and sugar]. Warm one and one-fourth cups of milk to tepid temperature. Beat the whole egg and yolks together. Add gradually to this the tepid milk, and then stir this into the dry ingredients. Add the melted butter; then the yeast mixture, and work together. Stand aside to let rise again. When the dough has doubled in bulk, turn out on a floured board and roll to one-half inch thickness. Cut with a biscuit or doughnut cutter.

Paris Forecasts Satin Suits for Spring Wear

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The success of satin this winter has brought the satin suit into the foreground of the Paris midseason fashion shows. The dressmakers have, before this, plotted together to stage a comeback for satin suits, but without noticeable results amongst fashion's best customers, the ladies.

This time it looks as if the ladies might take to them, for some really distinguished women hereabouts are ordering satin suits to take south with them. The satin suit as Paris sees it is anything from the simplest of tailored suits to a dressy coated affair for afternoon.

This scarf is attached to the coat except at the neck. The sleeves, too, are treated in an unusual way, having slightly flared bands stitched down the outside just to the elbows to suggest a cape.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' STEP-INS.

This pantie and brassiere combination is one that should fit perfectly and also be easy to make. When you have only the cost of the material to meet, the expense is bound to be negligible. The work is delightful. Pink crêpe de chine, peach pink or eggshell crêpe satin would be lovely, and, if you wish them elaborate, you might make the brassiere and legs of the panties of Alençon lace in an ecru shade.

The pattern, 3435, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18 years and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 1½ yards of 39 inch material with 3¼ yards of binding.

YOUR MOTHER AND YOUR GRANDMOTHER

Would say: "'Tis January—so to "Carson Pirie's" White Sales." Those were the days when lingerie was muslin and white, and yards and yards around, when table linens were white and heavy and stiff. Other times, other customs. Today's lingerie is slim and pink and silken. Linens fall in soft, rich, satiny folds—ofttimes in gay colors. But the quality with which the earlier Chicagoans associated "Carson Pirie's" remains the same. And "To Carson Pirie's" for the White Sales" is still the slogan for those of this generation with whom "quality" is the thing that makes low prices count.

BLACKHAWKS AND BRUINS BATTLE TO 1-1 TIE

YOU CAN WATCH GOLDEN GLOVES BOUTS FOR 50c

Ticket Sale Opens; All Seats Reduced.

BY ARCH WARD.

For three nights, Feb. 29, March 1 and 2, more than 250 fighters—survivors of tournaments in 21 cities—will battle at Chicago Stadium in the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions.

There will be no novices in this competition. All of the contestants will have earned their right to appear in the world's largest arena by their courage and skill in preliminary meets. Only the bravest survive the wear and tear of the qualifying rounds.

Not Limited to Chicago.

There will be boys who learned how to wield gloves for the first time in the recent Catholic Youth tournament. There will be young men from Grand Rapids, Cleveland, Rockford, South Bend, Quincy, Davenport, and at least 30 other towns. Golden Gloves competition is not limited to Chicago and the 20 other cities holding preliminary trials. Some of these out of town centers hold two or three qualifying tournaments of their own.

But it isn't necessary to stress the caliber of competition for Golden Gloves. More than 125,000 Chicagoans attended last year's bouts. They know that for honest effort, amazing developments, and thrilling rivalries the tournament has no parallel in boxing.

It has been the policy of THE TRIBUNE to keep the prices for these contests as low as possible. Increasing support on the part of the public has enabled officials of the tournament to reduce steadily the cost of admission. All profits are donated to charity.

Seats 50 Cents to $1.50.

This year fans can watch champions from 21 cities match fistic skill for 50 cents. This is only one-half the minimum admission fee for the same tournament a year ago.

The entire top balcony will be sold at that price. Seats in the first balcony and end sections of the mezzanine will cost a dollar. The lower floor and center sections of the mezzanine have been reduced to $1.50.

Golden Glove patrons not only will see the bouts at lower prices but will have better seating accommodations at the Stadium than at the Coliseum, where the meet was held a year ago.

Applications for tickets to the Tournament of Champions may be filed immediately. Only mail orders will be received. Send your order to Ticket Manager, Golden Gloves tournament, CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Checks made out to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE must accompany each order.

Decision to accept ticket orders this far in advance of the meet was made to help fans obtain good seats. Thousands were disappointed last year because they applied too late to get choice locations. Persons planning to attend any or all of the three nights' competition are urged to mail their orders immediately. Judging from last season's demands the better sections will be sold within two weeks.

Good Seats for All.

Everybody has a chance to get a good seat if he will take enough interest to apply while there are plenty available. Whether you sit in the 50 cent or $1.50 section you are assured of an unobstructed view of the two rings. There probably will be sixty bouts each of the first two nights. The price of each fight to the second balcony spectators will be less than a cent.

That's a bargain, even in these times.

IT'S HOMECOMING IN HOLLYWOOD'S JAIL; ACE'S BACK

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska wildcat, was arrested early today on a charge of assault to do bodily harm after T. Leonard Park, 38, had suffered a fractured skull in a street altercation.

The police said Park and E. S. Martin objected to the honking of an automobile horn by Hudkin's companion, Ellen Dorsey, and that both Park and Martin were knocked down by the pugilist.

Golden Gloves

PAR SURRENDERS TO MAC SMITH IN COAST TOURNEY

He Shoots 68 to Increase Lead in $7,500 Open.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 10.—(AP)—MacDonald Smith of New York added a 68 today to his 69 of yesterday for a 36 total of 137 at the half way mark of the Los Angeles open golf championship. He was five strokes below par and the same number in front of the field.

Smith, who will celebrate his 40th birthday this year, played as if he were out for a practice round instead of shooting for the major part of $7,500. His wood shots were virtually perfect and his approaches left him close enough on many of the tricky greens to get down with a break in luck. He had four birdies.

There was a scramble for the temporary runner-up position. Leo Diegel, for the second time in two days, negotiated the course in par figures—71—and his 142 was equaled by Walter Hagen, who did the same 71-71.

Reduce Field to 59.

Dallas Jeffers of Santa Ana, Cal., and Olin Dutra, Santa Monica, and Joe Kirkwood, the trick shot expert, went about the accomplishment a bit differently but achieved the same result, Jeffers following a 70 with 72, Dutra and Kirkwood taking a 70 on a 72.

The field tonight was reduced for the final 36 holes competition tomorrow to 59, this total including all players who escored 150 or better. George von Elm, a pre-tournament favorite, barely slipped in with 149 and Tom Creavy, the champion of the Professional Golfers' association, had an even closer call when he scored 150.

Seven amateurs qualified, Charlie Seaver, Stanford student, leading this division with 145, thanks to a 71 today. Roland Mackenzie, Walker cup player, also scored a 71, holing out a brassie shot for a two at the eleventh hole and getting a total of 147 strokes.

Still in the Money.

Six strokes back of the leader but "still in the money" were Gene Sarazen, New York; Clarence Clark, Bloomfield, N. J.; Ky Laffoon, Denver, and two Texans, Ben Hogan of Fort Worth and Dick Metz, of San Angelo.

Carnera to Fight Gains in London Ring May 30

LONDON, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Primo Carnera, Italian man mountain, and Larry Gains, Toronto Negro who holds the British empire heavyweight championship, tonight were matched for a ten round bout at White City Stadium May 30.

CHICAGO'S TITLE HOPE

Will she get your vote? We knew she would. But the deciding ballot is competition and Miss Elizabeth Du Bois must cast it for herself at Oconomowoc, Wis., Saturday and Sunday. She is Chicago's hope for Olympic representation, too.

Elizabeth Du Bois Sharpens Blades for National Meet

BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

Elizabeth Du Bois, one of Chicago's outstanding women skaters, is among the potential Olympic stars entered in the national skating championship meet at Oconomowoc, Wis., Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Du Bois has been competing in major meets for the last six years, during which she achieved a commendable record. She won the girls' junior Silver Skates in 1927 and in 1929 accomplished the goal of her skating ambitions by winning the girls' senior event, thereby becoming a double winner of TRIBUNE Silver Skates.

Training's the Thing.

Last year, on Jan. 22, Miss Du Bois clipped two seconds off the United States half mile record in a handicap event at the Henry playground. Starting from scratch, she defeated Catherine Welter, who had a 150 yard advantage, by ten yards, and Loretta Neitzel of Detroit, the defending champion, by five yards. She also was the runner-up in the North American indoor championships at the Stadium last year.

Her success, she believes, lies in an appreciation of the value of training.

"I never knew much about training until I began competing with champion skaters," she said. "Then it occurred to me the only way to succeed was to prepare for it. Now I skate every evening during the season, practicing on both indoor and outdoor rinks. I have always had difficulty taking the turns in indoor races and have often been pocketed because of inability to lap at the bends. I have been training at the Stadium, however, and believe I have overcome this difficulty.

"I prefer skating outdoors for competition is on a larger track with more straightaway and better opportunity to speed. I believe," she continued, "I made the best skating record of my career in 1930 at Saranac Lake, N. Y., where, in an exhibition race with Elizabeth Bladsell of Ohio, I came within one fifth of a second of breaking the senior women's world's record for the 220 yard dash.

Faces U. S. Stars.

"I have four pairs of skates," Miss Du Bois explained, "three for outdoor skating and a pair for indoor competition. The skates for outdoor use are for good, fair, or bad ice. The indoor skates have short bladed rocked runners to enable me to keep my balance going around curves. In the summer, I keep in trim by horseback riding, road work, and bicycle riding."

Miss Du Bois, who is nineteen, graduated from high school last June and is continuing her studies in the school of physical education at Northwestern university.

Along with Miss Kathleen Kline of Buffalo, N. Y., Helen Bina and Eleanor Theil of Chicago, Loretta Neitzel and Rose Marie Brady of Detroit, Mich., Elsie Mueller, the national champion, and Lillian Corke of New York, Miss Du Bois will skate in the 500 meter, 1,000 meter and 5,000 meter events at Oconomowoc. The six girls with the highest point standing at the end of the two day meet will represent America in the Olympic races at Lake Placid in February.

A regulation 400 meter track will be used at Oconomowoc by the women contestants, while the men's events will be contested on the regulation American six lap track.

MARTIN CAPTURES FIRST PLACE IN MIAMI REGATTA

Miami, Fla., Jan. 10.—(AP)—George Martin of South Bend, Ind., scored 3,092 points today to win first honors in the seventh annual midwinter outboard regatta on Biscayne Bay. He was third in a class B race, first in a class C race, and piled up points consistently in various heats.

Greenleaf Beats Woods in Pocket Cue Match

New York, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Ralph Greenleaf, world pocket billiard champion, defeated Arthur Woods of Pawtucket, R. I., by 853 points in their 1,750 point match completed at the Strand academy tonight. The final score was Greenleaf, 1,750; Woods, 897. Greenleaf won both of the last two blocks and 11 out of the 14 played.

MICHIGAN GAME WITH MINNESOTA TOPS BIG 10 LIST

Undefeated Fives Clash Tonight.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Michigan and Minnesota, victors Saturday night in their opening Big Ten basketball games, meet tonight at Ann Arbor in what probably will be the feature battle of the four game conference card. Northwestern, with two victories, journeys to Iowa City to help Iowa open its home schedule. Illinois at Indiana and Wisconsin at Purdue complete tonight's program.

Michigan's victory over Wisconsin Saturday on the Badger court indicated that the veteran Wolverine quintet has more offensive strength than expected. However, defense practically won the game, for after Wisconsin had a 15 to 14 lead at the half, Michigan held the Badgers to three points in the final period to win, 24 to 18. The Michigan team is identical to that which finished the 1931 season, although Ed Garner, a six foot four inch center, threatens to take Capt. Norman Daniels' job.

Michigan Seeks Height.

Garner is expected to start tonight against Minnesota. His height will be invaluable against the rangy Glenn Bethel, Minnesota center. Daniels now will compete with Petrie for one of the forward positions.

There isn't much chance for the Badgers, twice defeated, to break into the victory column tonight against Purdue. The Boilermakers' unexpected reverse Saturday at Illinois should provide any additional incentive needed at Lafayette to get back into winning form. Illinois' victory over Purdue, 28 to 21, was the big upset of the first week's play in the Big Ten. Purdue had won all of its pre-season games and had whipped Indiana decisively in its first Big Ten contest.

Blot on Illini Record.

Illinois' defense was excellent, particularly in the first half when Johnny Wooden was the only Purdue player to connect from the field. The half ended with Illinois leading, 19 to 5. Illinois' long distance shooting was responsible for the advantage, and the second half wasn't long enough for the Boilermakers to get under way. Illinois always was at least seven points in front.

Unfortunately for Illinois, it lost its first conference game to Ohio State, 29 to 28. If Purdue is as good as critics have said, its whipping only makes the conference race more interesting, and the same thing might be said of Illinois, providing Saturday night represents its real strength.

McCarnes Improves N. U.

Northwestern beat Indiana Saturday night, 29 to 23, and had complete control of the game all the way. Indiana failed to score a field goal in the first half. Once in the second period Indiana was within four points of the Wildcats but the reliable Joe Reiff and Saul Farber, who has become the key of Northwestern's passing, soon manufactured more points.

Iowa, although defeated by Ohio State, 20 to 17, apparently is a better team than a year ago, and, if inspired, may cause the Wildcats trouble tonight at Iowa City. Northwestern, however, seems stronger than ever since Capt. Bob McCarnes returned to offensive form Saturday night when he led his mates in scoring against Indiana.

Hoosiers Miss Dickey.

It shouldn't be much of a job for Illinois to whip Indiana tonight, although if Dickey returns to the lineup the Hoosiers may play better ball than against Northwestern. Indiana now has lost two games, and another defeat will mark the team as headed definitely for the second division.

Loyola university, on its second trip of the year, plays the City college of Detroit tonight and St. John's at Toledo tomorrow night. Loyola defeated John Carroll Saturday night, 36 to 23. Western State Teachers won from Loyola Friday the first defeat for Loyola this season.

CY WENTWORTH EVENS SCORE IN LAST PERIOD

Burke Gives Boston Early Lead.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks last night transformed imminent defeat into a 1 to 1 overtime tie with the Boston Bruins. Cyclone Wentworth grabbed the puck from a face off and batted it home when the contest was within three and a half minutes of a Bruin victory.

The game, though rather interesting, did not live up to precedent, which always has been much rough and tumble stuff when the two teams hooked up. There wasn't a penalty in the first 32 minutes, only three in the regular phase of the game and one in the overtime period.

For the second time at the Stadium this year, Eddie Shore, Bruin star defense man, did not place his shorts on the team bench. Eddie played 68 minutes, his two minute respite being due to a penalty in the second period.

Remain in Tie.

The last time Eddie was here he played 56 minutes, being off the ice only long enough to serve two penalties.

The Bruins came to town in an American division second place tie with the Hawks, and left in the same predicament.

The visitors are in bad shape physically and before the game announced they hoped to play a defensive engagement, hoping to arouse only long enough to slip over one run.

This part of the Boston strategy materialized for Rookie Eddie Burke slammed one in in 19:15 of the second period.

Defense Nearly Succeeds.

Throughout the first three-quarters of the third period it appeared that the technique of the crippled Bostonese would work out to perfection.

Then there was a face off to the Hawks' left of the Bruin cage. Tommy Cook bounced the rubber in the direction of the net, and midst the cheers of some 13,000 despairing customers, Wentworth did his stuff.

Although Gardiner was credited with eight stops, only two held anything that approximated a real threat, these two possibilities being the result of solo dashes by Shore which passed the Hawk defense but which were halted at Gardiner's pad.

Hawks Nearly Score.

The Hawks got their offensive going on three or four occasions and once in a foray precipitated by Gottselig, Ripley and Couture, it appeared that the rubber had passed the red line, which means a score. But the light wasn't flashing and there was no squawk from the Hawks, so it must have been an optical illusion.

Up till the last minute of the second period the outstanding feature of the session was that it went 12 minutes before the first penalty of the game was assessed. Gottselig drew it for tripping. Two minutes later Shore drew the first Bruin penalty.

Then Bruins Score.

In 19:15, however, the folks got something besides the dearth of penalties to talk about. Burke skated along the right boards. He waited for Gardiner to come out of the net with his charge, and Chuck did as anticipated. When Chuck sprawled, Eddie whanged away at the wide open cage, ringing up the score with great vigor and precision.

The Bruins started the third period with strictly defensive play protecting their one point advantage. Adams and March took the puck down to the Bruin goal, but Thompson stopped March's shot.

Hawks Tie Score.

The time was 16:30. There was no more scoring in the period and the game went into overtime.

During the overtime period play switched back and forth, but the nearest thing to a score was a long shot from the blue line by March, which Goalie Thompson just managed to stop. Lineup:

Norge Riders Win 2 Events in Ski Meet

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Oconomowoc, Wis., Jan. 10.—Representatives of the Norge Ski club of Chicago monopolized honors in the annual Oconomowoc tournament here today by scoring victories in classes A and C at the Devil's Hollow Hill. The slide record of 104 feet, set by Jorgan Johansen, Rockford, last year, was broken five times and equaled once.

Guttorm Paulsen, Norge Ski club, won the class A event with jumps of 114 and 113 feet and a point total of 18.825. A teammate, Roy Mikkelson, finished second with leaps of 109 and 113 feet and a point score of 18.612, while Sverre Fredheim, Milwaukee, was third with 106 and 107 feet and a count of 18.175.

Ruben Onsrud of Oconomowoc captured class B laurels by jumping 100 feet and 103 feet. Rudy Senderson, Norge Ski club entry, took second place. Harvey Nielsen and Howard Jensen, also of the Norge club, were first and second in class C, which was for novices.

Two injuries were reported. Carlyle Lindblom of Hammond, Ind., suffered a fractured collar bone and Hans Johnson, Racine, came up with face lacerations following take-offs.

A field of 80 skiers, representing the best in the central states, competed, while more than 2,500 looked on. Snow was ample and the weather favorable.

The McDonald Boosters basketball team will meet the Tigers A. C. tonight in the third game of the Salvation Army basketball tournament at 31st street and Normal avenue. Monaghan, Daley, Willins, Higgins, and Mescall will start for the Boosters.

Tilden Leads Tennis Troupe In Tomorrow

Professional tennis moves into the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night with Big Bill Tilden opening the defense of his championship in the first of a series of matches against Hans Nusslein, young German star and the leading player among the European professionals.

In addition to the Tilden-Nusslein duel, Emmett Pare, former Chicago youth who turned pro a year ago, will meet Albert Burke, Irish player who resides in France, in a singles encounter. Tilden and Burke will pair for a doubles match against Roman Najuch, Polish player and veteran of European tennis, and Nusslein.

The professional tennis championship is unlike other sporting events. Instead of settling the honors with one match, the pro stars barnstorm their way around for the benefit of fans throughout the country, playing three out of five set matches at every stop, the total sets at the end of the tour to determine the victor.

Age Against Youth.

The Tilden-Nusslein match will be a contest between an athlete who is at the peak of his game, although he is nearing 39 years of age, and a young player who still is improving.

Nusslein in the last six months has worked his game from a point of mediocrity to where he can challenge Big Bill to this professional championship contest. Young Hans trounced Karel Kozeluh, the Czech star, who played here against Tilden last year.

That Tilden still is on top of the tennis world, despite the load of his 38 years, was shown in the east last week when he trounced Vinny Richards, world's indoor pro net titleholder, in three straight sets.

Pare Former St. Mel Student.

Pare, who competes in the opening singles tomorrow night, attended prep school at St. Mel's and was prominent in local tennis circles. He then went to Georgetown university and two years ago advanced as far as the last eight in the national intercollegiate championships. Early last year he left the amateur ranks and joined Tilden's professional troupe.

Najuch for many years has been one of Europe's leading pros, ranking next to Nusslein and Kozeluh now.

Andy Lotshaw's Father Dies at Indianapolis

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Oscar F. Lotshaw, 77, father of David [Andy] Lotshaw, trainer of the Chicago Cubs baseball team, died at the home of a step-daughter here today. For years he had been a huckster in Brightwood and other east side communities.

SHIPPING DROP REDUCES BRIDGE OPENINGS 33%

Delays to Street Traffic Cut 40 Per Cent.

Diminished traffic in the Chicago river caused a decrease of approximately 33 per cent in the number of times the loop bridges were opened last year, as compared to 1930. The total time of street traffic delays was decreased 40 per cent. The decrease in river traffic was attributed to river conditions.

The sixteen loop bridges were opened a total of 24,613 times last year, according to figures supplied by Harbormaster William J. Lynch, and the average delay to traffic caused by each opening was 3.5 minutes. The total amount of time lost by opening of the sixteen bridges was 84,894 minutes, or approximately two months.

In 1930 the total time lost amounted to 128,063 minutes, or two months, three weeks, and six days, and there were 36,339 openings of the sixteen bridges. In 1929, the peak year for loop bridge openings, the time lost amounted to 159,557 minutes, or three months, two weeks, and four days, and the total openings amounted to 49,148.

The number of bridge openings in the loop have decreased fifty per cent since 1929 and the amount of time lost has decreased almost the same percentage.

STEAMSHIP LINES APPROACH RUSSIA FOR CONCESSIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Jan. 10.—Negotiations were opened today at Moscow between representatives of the world's largest steamship lines and the soviet government regarding concessions to permit the lines to reöpen their offices in Russian cities.

The steamship officials, who passed through Riga a couple of days ago on their way to Russia, were hopeful of increased traffic. They said that a large migration of skilled workers from the United States and Canada is expected to make its way toward Russia this year.

Hundreds in Russia Already.

The arrival of parties of immigrants consisting of between 40 and 100 workers, many bringing their families, is now a weekly occurrence in Riga. All are hopeful of obtaining well paid jobs in Russia.

Upon interviewing these groups it was discovered that they were organized and led by communists sent to America by Moscow to spread propaganda about the success of the 5 year plan to industrialize Russia and to recruit skilled mechanics, who are greatly needed in Russia's factories.

Promised Good Living.

One group of 60, consisting of 36 workers and the remainder women and children, who passed through Riga Friday, said they were railroad workers recruited in New York. The communists had informed them that difficult food conditions prevailed in Russia today, but the Reds promised that the living conditions of the workers would be even better than those in America at the conclusion of the industrialization plan.

In the past year, according to the estimates of the steamship agents, about 4,000 Americans, a majority of them Russians or Russian Jews who migrated from Russia to America between 10 and 20 years ago, passed through Riga en route to Moscow and Leningrad. Many others traveled direct to Leningrad aboard soviet steamers via London.

Yanks Are Disillusioned.

The disillusionment of Americans in Russia is revealed by scores of letters received by the American legation here, asking for assistance to enable the writers to leave Russia and return to the United States.

Hundreds of Americans, many with families, are stranded in the Donetz and Kuznetz coal basins, at Stalingrad, and at other distant points.

MEDICAL GROUP TO AIR CHARGES AGAINST TWELVE

The executive council of the Chicago Medical society will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow evening, at which time committees of the society are expected to make reports to the council on charges of unethical conduct against twelve member of the society.

The charges against eight of the physicians were lodged by the public relations committee, and the charges against the other four, members of that committee, were made by Dr. M. L. Harris, former president of the American Medical association. He charges the four committee members, Drs. Charles B. Reed, R. W. Kline, W. C. Nordholz and George Apfelbach, with unethical conduct because they named Henrotin hospital, with which he is connected, as one of a number of health centers under investigation on charges of unethical advertising.

The eight physicians against whom the public relations committee lodged charges are connected with the Wicker Park Medical center, 1530 North Damen avenue, and affiliated organizations. Among them is Dr. Edward F. Dombrowski, recently appointed a member of the reorganized city board of health.

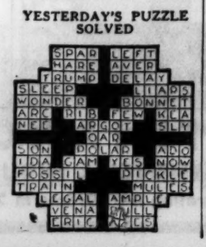
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



COUNCIL WILL DELAY ACTION ON WARRANT OFFER

The special meeting of the city council, called for today to consider the offer of the Associated Bond and Share corporation to buy $20,000,000 worth of tax warrants, is to adjourn for ten or twelve days without taking action, it was learned last night.

The recess will be taken because of the absence from the city of Mayor Cermak, Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee, and other officials, who left Washington on a trip to Florida Saturday night. Ald. John Coughlin [1st] will call the council meeting to order today as chairman pro-tem, and the adjournment will be taken immediately, it was said.

The Associated Bond and Share company, which has a modest suite of offices at 111 West Washington street, is not known in Chicago or New York financial circles, inquiries disclosed. It has offered to buy $20,000,000 of 1930 corporate fund tax warrants held in the city's aggregate of funds provided the city takes as half payment $10,000,000 worth of 1931 school board tax warrants.

City Controller Szymczak said yesterday that even if the city realizes $10,000,000 in cash by the proposition, it will probably be unable to use the cash for pay rolls, but will have to reserve it to prevent defaults on city bond and interest obligations falling due within the next six months.

Two more men, one of them wounded, were arrested yesterday and identified as members of the gang led by Kenneth Alberts, alias Monroe, who was killed last Wednesday when he attempted to escape police. Four men and two women, previously arrested, have confessed or have been identified in connection with some thirty robberies, according to police.

Jack Barry, 29 years old, of Detroit, entered the county hospital on Saturday suffering from a bullet wound. Yesterday he was identified by Frank Zdancewicz, 1367 Bradley street, as one of the men at whom he fired several shots two weeks ago when they attempted to rob his grocery.

The other man arrested was Sam Kanowski, 28 years old, 1609 North Austin boulevard, who was named in confessions by other members of the gang. Police found a revolver in his room.

BAIN WILL GIVE UP THIS WEEK; QUITS HOSPITAL

John Bain, head of the twelve Bain banks which closed last June owing depositors more than $13,000,000, is expected to surrender at the state's attorney's office early this week to make bond on a charge of conspiracy to defraud.

Bain was released Saturday from the German Deaconess hospital, where he had been for two months and was operated upon twice, and taken in an ambulance to his home at 8844 Pleasant avenue. Assistant State's Attorney Edwin J. Raber, in charge of the Bain investigation, sought to have Bain taken into custody immediately on a warrant issued last week, but the banker's lawyers said he needed a few days' rest and promised to bring him in.

There is also a subpoena for Bain's appearance before Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg, who is seeking hidden assets of the closed banks.

RAILWAYS CALLED FOR VIOLATION OF SMOKE ORDINANCE

Twelve alleged violations of the city's smoke abatement ordinance by two railroads will be investigated this week by Frank A. Chambers, chief city smoke inspector, at a hearing in his office to which have been summoned seventeen persons and business concerns besides the representatives of the offending railroads.

The railroads are the Nickel Plate and the Illinois Central. Five violations are charged against the Illinois Central and seven against the Nickel Plate. The others summoned to the hearing are:

D. J. Davis, 1521 Millard street.
M. H. Gallner & Co., 1359 Wilson avenue.
Miss May Hodgson, 8118 South Chicago avenue.
S. Kapustka, 6006 South Albany avenue.
Carl Edward, 7110 South Park avenue.
Illinois Casket Co., 2330 West Van Buren street.
Kellogg Box Board company, 2555 West Taylor street.
Schulze Bros., Laundry, 3319 Fullerton avenue.
Logan Square Apartment hotel, 2342 North Kedzie avenue.
Lakeland hotel, 4341 Sheridan road.
Hogan & Farwell, 1244 Stone street.
J. Goldberg, 2930 West Division street.
P. Elderwirth, 8505 Drexel avenue.
John Cirrintano, 301 North Lorel avenue.

As the city's ordinance permits the emission of smoke for a limited period under certain conditions there may not have been a violation in each one of these cases, Chambers said.

James F. Walsh, Official of Iron Company, Is Dead

James F. Walsh, vice president of the Moline Iron works, died yesterday in his home, 826 North Linden avenue, Oak Park, following two weeks' illness. He was 47 years old. Mr. Walsh was also manager of the Elkhart division of the Chicago Hardware Foundry company. He was a member of the Illinois Athletic and Butterfield Country clubs. His widow, Mrs. Mary Hayes Walsh, and three children, Margaret, James, and Virginia, survive. Funeral services will be held at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow in St. Giles' Roman Catholic church, Oak Park, followed by burial in All Saints cemetery.

FRANCE HONORS MAGINOT, WAR CHIEF, IN DEATH

PARIS, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Andre Maginot, "Sergeant of Verdune" who served his country in the trenches during the war and later as minister of war devised great defensive projects on the eastern frontier of France, was honored in death today with the highest homage of the French nation.

In the shadow of Napoleon's tomb, the man who served as a private was given a national funeral similar to those of Marshals Joffre and Foch.

France's last three marshals, followed the coffin from the ministry of war to the Church of the Invalides. There Cardinal Verdier pronounced absolution and Premier Laval paid homage to M. Maginot as a simple soldier patriot in a eulogy during which he stressed France's love of peace.

WHEAT OUTPUT OF ANTIPODES PRESSES WORLD

Sees Need for Bigger American Sales.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat traders of the world are confronted with increased offerings of new wheat from Argentina and Australia. Argentine wheat has sold in Liverpool within a few days at around the same price as Chicago May.

There is a nominal difference between Chicago and Liverpool prices. May wheat in Chicago closed Saturday at 56⅛@56⅝c and in Liverpool, 57c, despite the fact that it costs around 20c bu to put wheat down from Chicago to Liverpool. Argentina's and Australia's harvest is well advanced and for the next few months it is expected that Argentine wheat will be pressing on European markets, while Australian wheat will be less burdensome as a good part of its surplus will go to China and other countries with the result that the United States and Canada may receive better demand from English and continental markets for their wheat.

Canada was a free seller of cash wheat to foreign countries the past week, while moderate quantities of American hard winters were sold abroad. Sales and exports of American wheat, however, must be greatly increased to reduce supplies to normalcy in the next six months.

The farm board is selling wheat to mills and exporters in a liberal way, and will have to increase its sales materially and the only way this can be accomplished is to make prices competitive with other countries.

Crop Prospects Uncertain.

It is assumed that crop conditions in the United States are at present too uncertain to induce selling, and other conditions are against large speculative investments. Supplies are heavy but the movement from farms is rather below the seasonal average. At present wheat traders incline to the selling side in line with the custom at this season, as this is the period known as the "voice from the tomb." It is also called "calendar selling." Farmers in years past sold their wheat in January to prepare for taxes and to meet other indebtedness, and Argentina and Australia have for years become important sellers and exporters of wheat in volume that usualy depresses prices. Unless there is an increased volume of buying brought into the market, it would be no surprise to see prices lowered for a time at least.

Russia has dropped out of the picture for the time being, its place taken by Argentina.

The crop scare period is near at hand and conditions are none too favorable at present, although the southwest has had rain and snow which should benefit the plant. Crop conditions are regarded as low, but should there be plenty of moisture and sunshine at the critical period, a reduction in production this season might not be as heavy as is generally expected.

The market during the last week was controlled largely by privileges, which were sold close to the closing prices, with "bids" operative, especially toward the end of the week.

Better Milling Demand.

A striking new feature, which may have a greater influence on prices should it continue, was the improvement in the milling demand for high protein wheat, with sales of around 400,000 bushels at Chicago alone. Traders incline to the belief that should the plan now before congress to give the unemployed and poor 40,000,000 bushels of wheat now held by the farm board materialize, it would have a disturbing influence, especially on the milling trade, and possibly depress prices.

At present the action of the stock market is a barometer for wheat traders, the advance in Steel alone of around 10 points for the week influencing grain traders to become bullish and long at the close.

Prices on wheat futures at Chicago had a range of 3c, with the close around the low point, net losses being ⅝@⅞c. March finished at 55c; July, 55⅝@55¾c, and September, 56⅞@57c. Spreading between leading deliveries was a factor. Prices follow:

Corn Had Poor Support.

Buying of wheat and selling of corn futures widened the spread and made it profitable for operators who gave special attention to that style of trading. In a general way, speculation in corn has not increased, and trade sentiment is bearish. Country holders of corn have sold the cash grain in a moderate way, but the movement is not heavy owing to bad roads. Industrial buying was sufficient to take surplus offerings in the sample market. Shipping demand is disappointingly small and the disposition of the trade is to sell on bulges. Corn prices moved within a liberal range and closed 1⅜@1⅝c lower for the week. March finished at 38½c; May, 40¼@40c; July, 41⅝@41½c, and September, 42¼c. Prices follow:

Farrell Points to Rise of Pacific Area in U. S. Trade

The first national foreign trade convention to be held outside the continental borders of the United States has been summoned by James A. Farrell, chairman of the National Foreign Trade council, to meet in Honolulu on May 4, 5, and 6 next.

Invitations to the nineteenth national foreign traders' gathering are being sent to prominent business leaders in Australasia, Japan, China, and other countries in the Pacific area, and it is anticipated that in addition to the 1,000 American business executives attending there will be a larger number of delegates from foreign countries than at any previous American foreign trade meeting.

Trade with Japan, China, and India was larger in volume last year than in 1930, with less recession in value than in other world markets. Honolulu being the cross roads of the trade routes from America to the Orient and Australasia is regarded as a most appropriate location for an international conference, such as this will be, on the trade of the Pacific area.

Cites Significant Trend.

Mr. Farrell's call of the convention is addressed to business firms and associations throughout the United States and all the countries of the Pacific as follows:

"The rise of the Pacific area to a place of commanding importance in international commerce is one of the significant trends of our time. Trade currents are swinging with increasing frequency into and around the great Pacific basin.

"As the world emerges from the current period of lethargic economic condition foreign traders are seeking not only to strengthen their business in present markets but to widen their contacts and enter new fields.

"Familiarity with new markets is the essence of new trade. Acquaintance with the men and business organizations of these markets is the first requisite.

"In order to give full opportunity to American producers and traders and to the producers and traders of every country around the Pacific to meet together and to join in helpful study and consideration of present day problems in overseas trade, the National Foreign Trade council will hold its nineteenth convention on May 4, 5, and 6, 1932, in Honolulu, Hawaii, where the great trade route between America and the Antipodes crosses the great trade route between America and the Orient. There at the 'cross roads of the Pacific' the peoples of all the countries touching that ocean may meet one another half way in frank discussion of matters of common interest.

Invites All Pacific Nations.

"All those who are interested in the development of international commerce as a vital factor of prosperity, whether in agriculture, commerce, industry, finance, or transportation, all chambers of commerce, boards of trade, national and state associations and other industrial and commercial organizations as well as firms and individuals actually engaged in foreign business, in North and South America, Australasia, the Orient, and the South seas, in all the nations of the great Pacific littoral, are invited to participate.

"Your coöperation toward giving the convention representation from every factor in international commerce in the Pacific basin, thus making it of genuine service to all the peoples of the Pacific area, is earnestly requested."

LAMONT DENIES BANKS DICTATE TERMS TO CITIES

Answers Statement by Mayor Walker.

New York, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Apparently speaking for bankers generally, Thomas W. Lamont, of the J. P. Morgan company, tonight denied that New York bankers have attempted to dictate terms upon which city securities would be floated, or that they have exacted excessive interest rates.

Intimation to this effect was made by Mayor Walker in a telegram Friday night to United States Senator Royal S. Copeland, in which he urged that the federal government extend financial aid to cities. The mayor said the banks were holding municipalities in a "financial straight jacket." Though he did not name New York City, the inference was drawn that he had reference to his own city.

Lamont said, however, that it was "hardly possible" the mayor had New York banks in mind "in his declaration that the country's banks have been non-coöperative."

He added that New York banks have undertaken a study of the city's finances at the specific suggestion of the comptroller and with the indorsement of the mayor. He denied emphatically that any "concrete suggestions have been made by bankers as to possible measures of economy or curtailment that might be undertaken by the city."

"Any public report," said Lamont, "to the effect that members of the banking group have stipulated a change in the city's subway fare or in the city's social and charitable services is wholly without foundation."

Pointing out that the city has 140 millions in short term indebtednesses outstanding, Lamont said the city's additional requirements for capital expenditures and budget were great."

FURNITURE EXHIBIT ATTENDANCE HOLDS UP WITH LAST SHOW

Attendance practically on a par with that of six months ago was reported at the American Furniture Mart, 666 Lake Shore drive, yesterday, at the close of the first week of the national furniture show. Registration of buyers showed that 2,966 retail furniture men attended the Chicago market during the week, as compared to 3,095 during the same period last summer.

Officials of the Furniture Mart and of manufacturing companies exhibiting in the building called this showing amazing, considering the general condition of the furniture industry during the last six months. The show opens again today for the second and final week.

Buying during the last six days was reported to have started slowly, but to have gained momentum as the week progressed. Although few dealers were signing up for enough merchandise to cover them for the first half of 1932, the volume of business on furniture needed immediately in the furniture stores was larger than had been anticipated. One of the largest companies exhibiting in the mart reported that its salesmen were obtaining orders late into the evening the last two days. Another reported business 40 per cent ahead of the market a year ago.

PARK CENTRAL TO REORGANIZE; REVEAL PLANS

Big Gotham Hotel to Be Refinanced.

BY AL CHASE.

Craig B. Hazlewood, chairman of the committee for the protection of holders of first mortgage bonds sold through the American Bond & Mortgage Co., last night announced that a plan of reorganization for the Park Central hotel, one of New York's most pretentious hostelries, has been jointly adopted and approved by the two bondholders' committees. Peter Grimm of New York is chairman of one body, and Mr. Hazlewood heads the Chicago group. The principal result which the reorganization expects to be accomplished is the avoidance, if possible, of "protracted and disastrous receivership."

CRAIG B. HAZLEWOOD. [A. P. Photo.]

According to George L. Wire, secretary of the Chicago committee, some of the other results expected to follow the reorganization will be the obtaining of a new first mortgage loan of approximately $2,250,000 to be used in the liquidation of delinquent taxes, which until recently were close to the million dollar mark; the acquisition of existing furniture, furnishings, and equipment freed from the lien of the purchase price notes and the purchase of additional furniture; for certain improvements; for reorganization expenses, formation of a new company and for additional working capital.

Reduce Fixed Charges.

A third result expected will be a reduction of about $550,000 per year in existing fixed interest charges for the first eight years and approximately $360,000 annually thereafter.

Yearly reserves of $50,000 for replacements and depreciation of furniture and furnishings and annual reserves of $25,000 for additional improvements and alterations are contemplated.

Provision also is provided for continuity of control through the transfer in the first instance of all common stock of the new company to voting trustees under a voting trust agreement for a period of years. A ten year contract between the new company and the present manager is contemplated.

Under the terms of the proposed plan the present first mortgage bondholders are to receive 50 per cent of their present bonds in 4½ per cent twenty-five year general mortgage income bonds to be secured by a mortgage on all the property of the new company, subject only to the new institutional loan of approximately $2,250,000.

May Issue Preferred.

The bondholders are to receive voting trust certificates for one share of common stock of the new company of $20 par for each $100 of bonds deposited. Provision is made for the issuance, if necessary, of 18,150 shares of 4½ per cent preferred of $20 par, or $363,000.

"Because of existing defaults in the first mortgage, foreclosure proceedings are now pending," said Mr. Hazlewood. "There is no receiver, but the net income from the property is being applied from time to time toward the payment of delinquent taxes."

Bondholders have until Jan. 30 to deposit their securities. The Chicago Title & Trust Co. is the Chicago depositary. The other members of the committee of which Mr. Hazlewood is chairman are: Dayton Keith, Frederick G. Curry, Charles W. Weston, Frank W. Blair, Joseph E. Otis, H. K. Hallett and Walter J. Sugden.

The Park Central apartment hotel, a thirty-one story structure, was erected on Seventh avenue, between 55th and 56th streets, New York, a few years ago and later Park Central hotel annex was erected. Mortgages totaling $8,500,000 were underwritten by the American Bond & Mortgage Co. These have been reduced to $8,220,000. Principal payment was defaulted on Dec. 1, 1930, and both interest and principal on June 1, 1931. The property, which has 800 rooms, is now operated as a commercial hotel.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 10.—In his annual message to stockholders, cabled from Berlin, Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the governing board of the Chase National bank, reviews the events of the past "year of disillusionment" and finds that no mere optimism or legerdemain in the use of credit can restore the buoyant prosperity of 1929. Sentiment is worse than facts, he says.

"In the midst of the crisis an immense volume of business still goes on and a great structure of values and credits stands," Mr. Wiggin reminds his shareholders. "The level of values and the volume of business are both depressed by fear of the unknown, far below the level justified by the facts, and both are capable of substantial revival with a mere change of emotional attitude.

The fashion in which the federal reserve banks and the American banking community met the European run upon this country's gold last fall, Mr. Wiggin says, constituted an important step in restoring international confidence. "The American dollar," he says, "is a gold dollar and the world knows this now and believes it."

Mr. Wiggin, who is at present in Berlin as the representative of 100 American banks, negotiating a new "standstill" agreement on German short term credits, discusses the German crisis in detail. Much of the private debt of Germany could be liquidated promptly, he asserts, if the foreign creditor banks would accept reichsmarks in payment. But the problem of transfers makes it difficult in the present situation to secure enough foreign currencies to make all the payments demanded.

As it is, Mr. Wiggin says, Germany has repaid since the autumn of 1930, $1,190,000,000 which is more than the total now remaining outstanding, $1,051,960,000. These repayments he says, constitute abundant evidence that the short term credits which Germany received were on the whole wisely used and that Germany has been internally much more liquid than was generally assumed.

MODERATION AT CAPITAL HELPS CHEER WALL ST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 10.—There is no reason why last week's advance on the stock exchange should have caused any great surprise, unless it was that Wall Street had come to believe that stock and bond markets should be expected to decline on favorable news.

It must frankly be admitted that some very recent markets, notably those immediately following New Year's day, might have been taken to confirm that supposition; also that the scope and character of last year's decline, in bonds especially, proved that existing market quotations had parted company with intrinsic values.

But that kind of thing could hardly go on forever, and at some point it was evident that markets would have to give as much attention to developments which would normally move up prices as to a state of mind whose entirely accurate reflection would have been the quoting of prices for every thing at zero.

In Normal Times.

In times of sanity on Wall Street news is appraised as favorable when it indicates change for the better in the financial situation, or else when it comprises personal statements from important sources pointing to a better state of things than the market had imagined.

Of tangible events in the way of present reassurance, two stand out predominantly. The first, including completion of the plans to safeguard the banking and railway situation with assurance that comprehensive measures of relief for hard pressed enterprise of all descriptions will be enacted, and the actual going into effect of the higher railway rates, has become plainly visible. There was reason to expect it. But the second is the astonishing discovery that our new opposition house of representatives, instead of being the wild-man's cage that Wall street imagination had pictured on the eve of last December, is turning out to be a body under control of leaders with conservative ideas and constructive policies, who have their following in hand, who appear to know what the real needs of the situation are, and who do not propose to jeopardize their party's chance of success in next November's vote by acting as obstructionists to the present relief of business depression.

Public Statements.

Monday's Supreme court decision virtually tying the hands of legislators against future attempts to force unremunerative rates upon the railways, supplements these other developments. In the highly important category of public statements by responsible financiers, the contribution of the day are numerous. They include Mr. Lamont's assurance to the senate that, if we look to our own affairs, "the foreign situation will in due course take care of itself." Mr. Kahn's flat declaration that "present values as quoted do not in any way express the intrinsic value" either of home or foreign bonds, and the implicit agreement with this view by

An interesting story of business success is revealed in the return to Chicago of Paul C. Fleer to become vice president and general merchandise manager of the Davis company, one of State street's leading department stores, at Jackson boulevard and State street.

PAUL C. FLEER.

Mr. Fleer, who is only 44 years old, laid the groundwork for his merchandise success as a young man in Chicago. He formerly was connected with the Fair, where for 17 years he held various positions. He began his career with that firm as a salesman, and at the time he left, on Jan. 1, 1924, he occupied the position of general merchandise manager. He starts his new work today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 10.—Bank suspensions in the United States in 1931 reached a record total of 2,302, involving net deposits of $1,580,000,000, according to figures compiled by the American Banker. During the year 485 bank consolidations took place and 190 closed institutions were reopened. The effect of these changes, according to the compilation, was to reduce the number of banks in the country to 20,700 at the end of 1931. The deposits in these institutions approximated $50,000,000,000.

The peak of the year's closing was reached the first week in October, when 166 banking institutions failed to open their doors, and in all there were 512 failures that month. November showed 169 closings and December 527. During the first week in January, 1932, only 68 banks suspended. The publication predicts that inasmuch as the passage of the reconstruction finance corporation measure is expected, it is likely that there will be a verticle drop in the number of bank failures in 1932 and a general increase in reopenings.

During the past year 49,238 of our borrowers paid off $13,023,000 of small loans ... loans which had served a broad range of human need and desire.

$13,000,000 worth of headway was made on the part of almost 50,000 people, whose incomes ranged from $25 a week to $10,000 a year ... headway in spite of the times and everything.

The whole story of borrowing money is not told when you talk about getting a loan ... the story is fully told only when this borrowed money has been paid up—While we make it possible for worthy people to obtain loans at a low cost, we make it practical for them to pay back what they have borrowed. That is one of the reasons for the success of our borrowing customers ... and it is one of the reasons why this bank and its methods are held in such high esteem.

CONSUMPTION OF CHEESE IN U. S. SHOWS INCREASE

Four hundred salesmen and distributors of the Kraft-Phenix Cheese corporation, from all parts of the United States, Canada, and England, will attend the annual sales convention at the Medinah Athletic club today. The convention opened Saturday with an address by J. H. Kraft, vice president of the corporation.

National sales figures of the cheese business last year provide the basis for an optimistic outlook for the coming year in the industry, Mr. Kraft told division delegates.

"Annual reports form the east, middlewest, southwest, southwest, and northwest—in major dairying sections of the United States—indicate that the cheese business forged steadily ahead in 1931," Mr.. Kraft said.

"Production has increased along with national consumption of cheese and dairy products. Government reports show that more than nineteen pounds of cheese were consumed last year by every family in America. Ten years ago we consumed just about 12 pounds per family. The Canadian and English branches of the Kraft-Phenix corporation, as well as the Cuban and continental plants will forge ahead with cheese production next year in accordance with the general plans of the corporation."

Intermediate Credit Will Make Debenture Offer

January financing for the Federal Intermediate Credit banks will take the form of an offering early next week of $12,500,000 of collateral trust debentures, dated Jan. 15 and due in four to nine months, according to Charles R. Dunn, fiscal agent. Since 1923 the banks have sold in the open market more than $1,000,000,000 of debentures and the outstanding debentures as of Jan. 1 amount to approximately $79,000,000. This will be reflected in the annual report which will be ready for distribution about the end of February. The forthcoming financing is to refund $17,500,000 of debentures maturing Jan. 15.

AUTO INDUSTRY HOLDS CENTER OF BUSINESS WORLD

New York, Jan. 10.—(AP)—American business shook off a little of its usual year-end dullness in the last week.

The automobile industry is now entering one of the most interesting periods of its yearly life with the opening of its annual shows. Better activity is reported by the cotton textile trade. Several other textile industries report moderate improvement in business volume.

The steel industry is looking for better buying, and in the retail trade there has been some stepping up of volume due to the special sales ordinarily held at this time of year.

Wide Public Interest.

Wide public interest was reported by executives of the leading automobile companies at the opening of the New York show. This week is important to producers because it gives them their first practical opportunity to weigh public taste, analyze the appeal that must be made to tempt the public to open its purse, and to draw some workable estimate as to the probable business that will develop in the new year.

Again this year, as last, the manufacturers have based their appeal mainly on the values that can be obtained at historically low prices.

Just prior to the opening of the automobile show, the General Motors corporation issued figures showing a sharp gain in December sales over November. American sales to consumers totaled 53,588 cars, against 34,873 in November. This represented the nearest approach to 1930 sales levels for any month since last July. A gain in unit sales was reported by Chrysler.

In Steel Industry.

The basic steel industry showed during the week an increase in advance orders which indicated that some stepping up of operations would be necessary this month. The industry as a whole is operating around 24 per cent of capacity. Automobile company purchases of steel are still reported at low ebb, but greater volume is anticipated after the automobile shows are over.

Activity in the lighter manufacturing lines has been somewhat better. The furniture industry has experienced some quickening of activity, due largely to the gathering of 3,000 buyers for the Chicago furniture show.

One of the brighter spots in the general business picture is furnished by the shoe trade. Because of low leather prices, manufacturers of shoes have been able to market their merchandise profitably at price levels which are lower than usual. Throughout the west buying of shoes was reported particularly brisk.

Brisk Activity in Southwest.

Considerable impetus to general business has been furnished by the cotton manufacturing industry, which is well ahead of last year's production pace.

Great emphasis is placed in reports of many industries, with notable exceptions in the oil and copper divisions, on the small size of inventories. As a result, any moderate increase in public buying is expected to bring about a fairly sharp gain in manufacturing as well as retail activity.

CORPORATE LIENS HIT UPWARD PATH IN BOND MARKET

New York, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Corporate bonds during the past week took the upward path and, notwithstanding some apparent profit-taking and forced liquidation, continued their exhibition of strength to the end of Saturday's short session.

The only fly in the higher price ointment proved to be the United States government short list which started weak and ended weaker. Daily losses of from fractions to one or more points were the rule and not the exception in this category.

Various causes for the slump in governments were advanced. Among them was the report that the proposed reconstruction finance corporation contemplated the issuance of a maximum of $2,000,000,000 in 4 per cent debentures which would be tax free. Another was that in the rush to buy second grade loans, in the hope of big profits, investors sacrificed their federal securities.

Railway mortgages were the leaders of the market during the upward movement, some of them advancing 23 or more points above last month's lows. The low priced transportation issues were the favorites and gains of from 1 to 12 points in a single day were not unusual.

GENERAL BUSINESS IN CHICAGO SHOWS BETTER UNDERTONE

The first week of 1932 in Chicago displayed a fairly improved undertone in general business, according to trade observers of the Chicago Association of Commerce. Merchants and manufacturers were reported to have made a good start, with a disposition to push the business machine forward steadily as the year advances. Wholesalers of dry goods and merchandise received satisfactory commitments for leading lines of merchandise, with silks and cotton goods higher. Two leading department store executives also reported a slight upturn in the retail business for the first week of the year. The week closed with a distinct improvement in confidence.

A different showing was made by the mail order houses, whose sales for the week showed a decrease from the same week last year. One of the larger companies announced the closing of eight retail branches in different parts of the country, due to small sales attributable to poor locations.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?
Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1928 and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.
FOR EXAMPLE:
Get the Cost in DOLLARS Before You Borrow.
